The CSR activities mentioned in Schedule VII of Companies Act 2013 may be expanded and implemented in a meaningful way in all over the state.

6.5. SCOPE FOR FUTURE RESEARCH

The present study provides a base for so many future research works.

1. A study on CSR and its consequences at the manufacturing and service industry.
2. A comparative study on the implementation of CSR at two different states in India.
3. The role of CEOs political ideology and the implementation of CSR at the companies.
4. The causes and consequences of CSR in the service industry in the perspectives of customers.
5. The relationship between CSR, job satisfaction and organisational commitment at various industries.
6. The impact of corporate social responsibility on corporate sustainability in India.
7. The barriers in implementation of CSR at the Indian companies

BIBLIOGRAPHY

BOOKS

JOURNALS

Kothari, A., (2013), Integrating sustainability in Indian planning, Yojana, 57 (June 13).

Tom Murphy, (1992), “Hurtling the barriers to Qualitative research”, Marketing News, 31(7).

Others

