The study on the topic “COMPENSATION TO THE VICTIMS OF CRIME AND THEIR REHABILITATION MEASURES IN INDIA” has been completed under the able guidance of my respected learned teacher and supervisor Dr. C.P. Sheoran Professor, Head and Dean, Faculty of Law, M.D. University, Rohtak who has very generously spared his time and imparted intellectual and scholarly guidance by giving his illuminating advice, more particularly when I came across intricate and complicated problems. I feel paucity of words in expressing my sincere gratitude to Dr. Sheoran for his painstaking guidance.

I am also indebted to jurists and writers on the subject from whom I have been immensely benefited in my present research work.

I put on record my gratitude to all my teachers in the Department of Law for their kind co-operation in my academic pursuits. They have shown their keen interest in removing my doubts on certain points relating to the present work, whenever asked for.

My special thanks are reserved for my parents and my respected in-laws without whose co-operation and good wishes this work would not have seen the light of the day.

Words are insufficient to express my heartfelt sentiments for my beloved husband Sh. Chander Narayan Singh, Advocate, H.P. High Court, Shimla, without whose co-operation, patience and intellectual advice (in spite of his pre-occupations) this work could not have been completed. Still further the love and affection shown to me by my lovely son Jagat, and daughter Jaishree, have been a constant source of encouragement.

I am also thankful to Kartar Singh typist for his assistance in various ways in presenting the work in the present form.

Above all, I thank Almighty for blessing me with strength and confidence to accomplish this work.
