Acknowledgement

This thesis has been nourished by the sweat and loving affection of a number of well wishing teachers, dedicated friends and ever supporting of my parents and brothers. I specially acknowledge my debt of gratuity to my father Mr. K.S. Bajjar for joining his continuous helping hands with me while working on this book by meticulous proof-checking, preparing case-index etc., without which, I am sure, this work would have taken much longer period than it has done. His whole-hearted contribution as well as constant moral and unforgettable inspiration to me is distinctly valuable.

I particularly wish to avail of this opportunity to express my heartfelt thanks to Mr. Shantan Bajjar, Mr. Printan Bajjar and Mr. Rajesh Budgujjar, for not only making available to me the facility for computerisation of the text of the book, but also providing me with moral inspiration and strong support in completion of this project.

I am also thankful to my Research Guide Dr. B P Singh for designing the titles of the chapters and of the book and caring to expedite. The stimulating discussions held with my Research Guide has gone a long way in giving a proper prospective and direction to this study and helped in crystallizing my ideas and thoughts. But what I really learnt from him is the art of writing and arguing in a coherent manner with an emphasis on brevity and clarity. I also express my deepest gratitude to my grandparents who remained as a source of inspiration throughout my work. Finally, I owe my deepest regards to my parents who are the source of encouragement and motivation throughout my life and my brothers for their constant help and encouragement.
