Bibliography

- Bateman N. (2001), Sustainability – A Guide to Process Improvement, The Lean Enterprise Research Centre: An SMMT Industry Forum Report as in Application of the food value chain analysis method in the UK red meat industry, Mark Francis, Food Process Innovation Unit, Cardiff Business School, Cardiff University, Aberconway, Building, Colum Drive, Cardiff, CF10 3EU, Email: FrancisM@cardiff.ac.uk

• Deloitte Consulting (1999), Energizing the supply chain: Trends and issues in supply chain management.

• Dorothy McCormick, Hubert Schmitz, (2001), Manual for value chain research on home workers in the garment industry, November.

Fox, M. S., Chionglo, J. F., and Barbuceanu, M. (1993), The Integrated Supply Chain Management System, Department of Industrial Engineering, University of Toronto.

• Galizzi, G. and Venturini, L. (1996), Economics of Innovation: The case of the food industry, Physica-Verlag, Heidelberg.

- Karnataka roller flour mills association, members' directory, 2007-08.
• Kingsman, B., Hendry, L., and Wilson, E. (1993), A decision support system for the dynamic planning of customer order intake and capacity resources for make-to-order companies. APMS'93 - International Conference on Advances in Production Management Systems.

• Krishnaswamy O.R., M.Ranganatham (2005), Methodology of research in social sciences, HPH, India, p.38.

• Leachman, R. C., Liu, C., and Raar, D. J. (1996), Impress: An Automated Production-Planning and Delivery-Quotation System at Harris Corporation - Semiconductor Sector. Interfaces 1, pp.6-37.

• Lewis, H.T.,(1956), “The Role of Air Freight in Physical Distribution”, Graduate School of Business Administration, Division of Research, Harvard University, Boston.
• Li. L. (1999), "Information sharing in a Vertical Chain with Horizontal Competition", Working paper, Yale School of Management.

• Mark Francis, (2005), "Application of the food value chain analysis method in the UK red meat industry", Food Process Innovation Unit, Cardiff Business School, Cardiff University, Aberconway Building, Colum Drive, Cardiff, CF10 3EU, Email: FrancisM@cardiff.ac.uk.

• Sahay B.S. (2000), Supply chain management in 21st century, Macmillan India limited.

• Shanthakumar Palaniswami, (2004), “Inter and Intra Organizational Issues in the Integration of Supply Chain Networks”, PSG International Conference on ILSCM.

• Silverman, as in “Application of the food value chain analysis method in the UK red meat industry”, Mark Francis, Food Process Innovation Unit, Cardiff Business School, Cardiff University, Aberconway, Building, Colum Drive, Cardiff, CF10 3EU, Email: FrancisM@cardiff.ac.uk.

• Sims, H. 1988, Political Regimes, Public Policy, and Economic Development.

• Sridhar Bhat (2008), Essentials of Logistics and Supply Chain Management, HPH, p.375.

• Wim Pelupessy, Luuk Van Kempen (2005), "The Impact of Increased Consumer-orientation in Global Agri-food Chains on Smallholders in Developing Countries", Competition & Change, Vol. 9, No. 4, November, pp.357–381.

