Acknowledgements

Since this thesis based on field experience across several cities in India, I’m grateful to large number of policymakers, bureaucrats and academicians in India. In fact there are many, whom I came across in the process and truly deserve my sincere appreciation for their help in this endeavour. I must specially mention the encouragement received from the collusive human characters of the then unintended experiences after obtaining my M.Sc. degree. I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to my parents and my dearest wife (to whom the thesis is dedicated), especially, my one and only son Soumyajyoti who had been brandies me through his animism and sanctifying babyhood to carry out this vital objective. At the very outset, let me pay my thanks to those colleagues, friends and well wishers who helped me in boosting my morale by variously cooperating in field survey, computation and DTP works during the last few years. They are Sri K. K. Dutta, Sri R. Roy, Sri A. Nandy, Sri R. Talukdar, Sri A. Dasgupta, Sri L. Barua, Smt. M. Paul, Sri V. Kumar and Smt. E. Mukherjee and they were extended their helping hand towards me from different platforms. I solicit earnest cooperation from all colleagues of my cliquey KUSP department in my municipal office especially to Sri S. Nag, Sri A. Bhattacharyya, Sri D. Chakrabarty, Sri T. Guchhait, Smt. P. Biswas and Smt. S. Chowdhury. I am obliged a great deal to Dr. Smarajit Das (my elder brother), Dr. (Prof.) Saibal Chattopadhyay, Sri Somnath Bose, Dr. (Prof.) Santanu Ghosh, Late Dr. (Prof.) Pabitra Giri, Professor Biswajit Chatterjee, Dr. Gopal Pal, Sri Sujatra Bhattacharyya, Sri Chandra Sekhar Hazra, Dr. Somnath Hazra and Dr. Suvranu Pan. I must also express my admiration to the organizers and participants of seminars and conferences where I’ve been honored to be invited to make my presentation since 2005 till date. The challenging questions, interest and enthusiasm of participants have helped me a good deal in the writing of this thesis. I must also sincerely express my gratitude for the unfailing support that I’ve received from Sri Sreehir Bhattacharyya, Smt. Anjana Rakshit, Sri S. Halder and Sri D. N. Mukherjee of my ULB. Finally, my thanks are due to my maternal uncles, late maternal aunt and elder brother for constant support and encouragement I received from all of them. While expressing my indebtedness, I always deeply feel the divine will of God. Of course, it goes without saying that I am alone responsible for all errors/ omissions of facts and statistics and judgments in the present thesis for which I laboured carefully to the best of my abilities. Views this thesis expresses do not necessarily reflect those of any scholars, researchers, institutions, offices with which I’m now, or have been, associated.

SAMARJIT DAS, Research Scholar, Jadavpur University