

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, I submit my glorification on the graceful feet of the omnipotent, which continues to serve me the energy, inspiration and wisdom to complete this work.

I am grateful to my teacher and guide Dr.G.Karunanithi, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University for his able guidance in sharpening my research aptitude and scholarship. My noble experiences with such a person with critical acumen and parental affection would help me in all walks of my life. I am privileged to thank him.

I also think with gratitude the encouragement and assistance given by my mother, wife, sisters and family members.

I should like here to record my thanks to Dr.M.Ramakrishnan, Dr.P.Kannappan, Dr.N.Kannan and Dr.R. Maruthakutti, Faculty Members, Department of Sociology, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Tirunelveli, for their help in multitude of ways to bring this work to fruition. I should also like to express my thanks in particular to Prof.N.Sukumaran and Dr.A.G.Murugesan, Department of Environmental Sciences, Alwarkurichi for their valuable inspiration.

I remember with thanks the worth of the suggestions made by Prof.S.Sampath Kumar, Professor in Statistics, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Prof. V.Shankarasubramanian, Professor in English, Madura College, Dr. A. Selva Kumar, Reader in Commerce, Bishop's college, Thoothukudi and Mr.A.S.Vijay Anand, Lecturer, Annai Fathima College, Madurai, to present the work in a lucid form.

I owe a special debt of gratitude to the workers, staff and authorities of both the mills who made many concessions to help me in data collection.

It is my duty to acknowledge the help rendered by my good friends Mr.S.Ramesh, Mr.S.Shibu Mon and Mr.R. Rethnamony during data collection and organization of the thesis. I also thank my fellow research scholars for the memorable experiences I enjoyed with them.

I am also very much thankful to the employees of Broad Band Net Cafe for having aligned the manuscript and taking printouts of the thesis in an impressive manner.

(L.T. OM PRAKASH)