But for the Institute facilities like Library, Photographic section and Xerox the progress of the work included in this thesis would have been far from satisfactory and I thank all the members of the above Departments for the same.

A very special mention must be made of Mr. A.D. Phadke to whom I owe a heavy debt of gratitude. I am deeply grateful to him for his keen interest in my work, valuable suggestions and sincere help in all possible ways and there aren't any ways that I can thank him enough.

Lastly, I must thank my parents, sisters, husband and son whose silent support has been a constant source of hope and encouragement for me, in the entire course of this work.
