ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I take this opportunity to acknowledge my debt to those who extended their valuable assistance in bringing out this thesis.

First and foremost, I express my deep sense of gratitude to my beloved guide Dr. S. A. Somwanshi, who has initiated me into realms of research in the area of Merchant Banking and persuaded me to complete this work. Discussions with him were always rewarding. Without his guidance the work could not have been completed. The whole credit for shaping my career goes to him.

I express my sincere thanks to principal A. S. Jadhav, Rajarshi Shahu College, Latur, for giving me the opportunity. I would like to thank Prof. R.L. Kavle, Principal and Head, Department of Commerce, R.S. College, Latur. My thanks are also due to Prof. M.S. Deshmukh, Vice Principal, R.S. College, Latur.

I am thankful to the librarians: Dr. B. A. M. U., Aurangabad; I.C.F.A.I., Hyderabad; N.I.B.M., Pune; Maharashtra Bank, Library, Pune; UTI Vashi; R.S. College; Dayanand Commerce College, Latur; The Bombay Stock Exchange, Mumbai and others for making available various documents and required literature for this study.

I am grateful to Prof. P. V. Joseph and Prof. U. A. Gaulkar, R.S. College, Latur, for their valuable suggestions and interest in my research work. I acknowledge valuable assistance extended to me by my colleague Prof. Kunal Badade. We have been together during our research work.

I also thank to Shri Shivkumar, Merchant Banking Division, Bank of Maharashtra, Pune, Shri L. S. Parab, Assistant Librarian, NIBM, Pune, Prof. S. M. Walkar, Deogiri College, Aurangabad, Prof. V. B. Pawar, H. O. D. of Economics, Prof. A. H. Saudagar and Prof. Roshankumar, R.S. College, Latur, for their valuable help to complete this work.
I wish to place on record my sincere thanks to Prof. A. R. Sathe and his staff members of USHA COMPUTER CENTRE, Latur, for their neat and timely typing and printing work.

There are many more friends and well-wishers and institutions whose names are not mentioned. Their contribution in my success is duly acknowledged.

Finally, I am grateful to my parents, my wife Mrs. Usha, brother Prof. Gopinath Sagar, Son Pankaj and daughter Preema for their constant encouragement, moral and understanding.

P. N. SAGAR