ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many people contributed to this study take its current size and content. I am indebted to the informants that were generous with their time and ideas. I would like to say “thank you all” and wish best treatment outcomes to my patient informants. I am very grateful to my principal research director, Professor Ch. Bapu Haranath and joint research director, Professor G. Jai Kishan for their guidance. Their guidance was not limited to academics alone. They encouraged me to participate and adapt to the social environment. I would like also to express my sincere appreciation to the staff and students of the department of Anthropology, Andhra University for all their efforts to make me feel at home.

I am very grateful to my spouse who shouldered most of household responsibilities during my study and whose emotional support had been indispensable. I should also thank our child son whose tender smiles helped me much to handle the dissonances during my study. I am indebted to my mother and my late father for their wisdom of parenting contributed much to the perseverance all along my way. I would like to extend my heartfelt and sincere gratitude to both. I am also grateful to the family of Enanu Kibret and the late Kassa GebreSellassie whose contributions to my academic life remain bold.

I wish to express my appreciation to the officials and staff of Addis Ababa University libraries (Kennedy, Graduate Studies and Institute of Ethiopian Studies) for their unreserved cooperation and assistance. The Research and Postgraduate Directorate of Jimma University financed my fieldwork expenses for which I am grateful. The staff in the department of Sociology at Jimma University have been supportive throughout my study. I also appreciate the assistances of Dr. Kassahun Kebede, Dr. Tesfaye Awas, Dr. Sahile Hailemariam, Sister Sinidu Fentawu, and Oksana Haa. Thank you all.
