Acknowledgments

“Debts can be certainly repaid, but co-operation extended and the guidance can never be repaid.” This formal piece of acknowledgement may not be sufficient to express the feeling of gratitude & affection for those who were associated with this research and without whose cooperation & guidance this research could not have been conducted properly.

Above all, the researcher is indeed indebted to almighty God who imparted health and emotional strength to undertake the doctoral program and finally complete the thesis. The researcher obligates to herself to acquire, refine, and transfer more knowledge to the Almighty’s creatures in return for what he has gifted her.

Sincere thanks to Prof. Aditya Shastri, the Hon’ble Vice Chancellor, Banasthali Vidyapith for his kind acceptance of the application and permitting me to enrol into the doctoral program. The researcher also expresses her gratitude towards the Pro-Vice Chancellor of Banasthali Vidyapith, Prof. Ina Shastri.

The researcher would like to thank Ms. Vandana Bharti, Assistant Vice President (Commodity), SMC Global Securities Ltd for her advisory role in the research. Her support and encouragement served as a key motivation factor throughout the research.

The researcher would like to express her thankfulness to Prof. (Dr.) Harsh Purohit, Dean FMS- WISDOM, Banasthali Vidyapith for his guidance and support at every step of this research. Thank you so much sir for your constant encouragement, support, patience and motivation throughout the research. You will continue to be a great influence on me. My success is your blessing.

The researcher is grateful to Mr. Herve Ott, Researcher, Thünen-Institute for Market Analysis, Bundesallee, Germany, for his comments on the research which were of great help to the researcher to further refine the concept. The researcher is also thankful to Prof. Vinod Madhavan, Assistant Professor, Indian Institute of Management, Lucknow for his valuable suggestions regarding data modelling in this research. A special thanks to Professor Betty
Simkins, Professor of Finance and Williams Companies Chair of Business, Oklahoma State University, for her insight and motivation for this research.

The researcher expresses her gratitude to Research Section, Banasthali Vidyapith, for the generous support in all administrative works. The researcher did not face any administrative hassle throughout her research.

The researcher also expresses her gratefulness to the Faculty Members of the department who have always provided their valuable comments and feedback which have been of immense help to improve the quality of this research. The long discussions on various aspects of this research with the faculty members of the department have always been of great help. A special thanks to the Staff Members of the Library who have always been of great help to provide books and journals for the research. The researcher also extends her gratitude to the Clerical Staff of the department who always extended their support during her presence in the department.

The researcher would like to express a special thanks to all her friends who have always extended their help and support for this research. The long discussions with them have always helped to polish and refine the work.

The researcher would like to extent her sincere thanks to her grandfather Late Shri K. K. Saxena who always inspired her to fight for her dreams. The researcher also expresses her gratitude to her uncles, Mr. Pankaj Saxena and Mr. Shubh Saxena who have always encouraged the researcher to pursue her research work.

Last, but not the least, the researcher would like to extend a special thanks to her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Ashok Choudhary for their moral and emotional support at various steps of this thesis. They have been a source of unconditional love always. A word of ‘thanks’ would be too small for their efforts for me.
