ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I deem it my earnest duty to place on record my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. C.A. Perumal, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D., M.P.A. (S. Calif), Emeritus Professor, Department of Politics and Public Administration, University of Madras, Madras, but for whose benevolent help, able guidance and constant inspiration this thesis would not have seen the light of the day. I am greatly indebted to my beloved Professor Dr. C.A. Perumal for his geniality and openmindedness, and for his acute criticism that improved my thesis considerably. His constructive suggestions provided me with new insights into my topic, while his kind comments revived my confidence whenever my spirits sagged.

My sincere thanks are due to my guide Dr. R. Thandavan, M.A. (His), M.A. (Pol.Sc), M.Phil., Ph.D., D.P.M., Head of the Department, Anna Centre for Public Affairs, University of Madras, Madras, who has nourished me by his unfailing help all the time. He took active and personal interest and guided with patience at every stage of the thesis. I thank the members of the facul ty in the Anna Centre for Public Affairs and the Department of Politics and Public Administration, University of Madras, Madras for their kind co-operation and help.

I whole-heartedly thank all those who have helped me to bring out this thesis.

V. YESU BHAKTHAN.
