Acknowledgements

I wish to place on record my gratitude to a host of wonderful people who have helped me one way or the other throughout the course of my research. Words fail to convey my gratitude to my guide and supervising teacher, Professor Maya Dutt for the confidence and moral support she gave me and for her very effective guidance. I thank the H. O. D., Professor Jameela Begum for inspiring me with thought-provoking suggestions. I am grateful to the Faculty and the administrative staff of the Institute of English for their goodwill and co-operation.

I am immensely grateful to Dr. Radhika P. Menon for reading the thesis and for her very valuable suggestions.

My thanks are also due to Dr. M. G. Vassanji whom I had the rare opportunity to meet, during his visit to the Institute of English, a couple of months before the submission of my thesis. I record my gratitude to Dr. Vassanji for sparing me a few hours for interaction and also for giving me an on-line interview.

I acknowledge my gratitude to the University Grants Commission for giving me the opportunity to be a part of the Faculty Improvement Programme from October 2004 to October 2007 and to the Manager, Sree Narayana Colleges for permitting me to avail myself of the Fellowship. I thank my colleagues in the Department of English, Sree Narayana College, Chempazhanthy for their blessings and prayers and all my friends and well-wishers for the same.

Let me record my gratitude to the librarians of the Institute of English Library, the UGC Area Study Centre for Canaduan Studies, University of Kerala, the Kerala University Library, the British Library, Thiruvananthapuram, SCILET, Madurai, the Indo-American Centre for International Studies (IACIS), CIEFL, and the Central University Library, Hyderabad, for the facilities extended to me.

Last but not least, I thank my family who stood by me through thick and thin and shared the joys and frustrations of research.
