ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The hallmark of a teacher is the ability to discern between a necessary and unnecessary hypothesis. It is this trait which makes him capable of molding raw incoherent student of science into a coherent and highly pragmatic scientist. I am grateful to my co-guide Late Prof. H. J. Arnikar, Professor Emeritus, Chemistry Department, University of Pune, who introduced me the present topic with many critical suggestions during the initial stages of the work.

I am thankful to my research guide Dr. S. B. Bhosale, Agharkar Research Institute for suggesting me the problem and help extended to me during the work.

I was extremely very lucky to be associated with one of such teachers Dr (Mrs.) N. S. Rajurkar, Chemistry Department, Pune University, my research co-guide. Her ability to weed out my incipient fancies and build a strong foundation is manifest in the present work. But for her constructive criticism and perseverance of tolerance to my idiosyncrasies, the whole of my research work would have been a sheer inconsistency. Diction fails me in expressing a full-hearted appreciation and gratitude.

I would like to thank Prof. B. S. M. Rao, Head, Chemistry Department and Dr. V. J. Rao, Director, Agharkar Research Institute for providing all the laboratory facilities. I am grateful to the University Grants Commission for providing me teacher’s fellowship.

I would also like to thank my labmates David Jacob, Prof. S. R. Kale Batti, Shailesh Kantak Sanjay Pangavhane, Smita Ahir with special thanks to Narendra Gokarn, Sunil Kulkarni, Samir Onkar, for helping me all day and night during the latter stages, without whom work could not have proceeded.

I would also like to thank Mr. Waghole, Dr. Naik from ARI, Prin. Wagh, Dr. Kaulgud, and all staff members of the Department of Chemistry, Fergusson College as well as Ms. L. N. Pavangadkar, P. S. Kharade, Dr. M. Y. Pandit, Dr (Mrs. ) R. P. Bhadane for their co-operation.

I am indebted to the support given to me by Dr (Mrs.) Rajurkar’s family members especially Mihir, who also helped me all day and night at the latter stages of the work.

Last, but not the least I would like to thank my parents, wife, my daughter and special thanks to my son Santosh for their warm love, encouragement and moral support.
