ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am taking this opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude to all those who have contributed to this work.

First and foremost, I would like to acknowledge my indebtedness to Prof. K. Warikoo, my esteemed supervisor, for his guidance, encouragement, tolerance and understanding borne out of his deep sense of love for students. It has been enjoyable and gratifying to work under his guidance. Prof. Warikoo has persistently encouraged me to pursue the aspects of Central Asian relations that I found the most interesting. I am grateful for the academic liberty he gave me, as well as for the challenging yet supportive feedback he provided to me over the last five years. Indeed, without his constant encouragement and support, his astute scholarship and penchant for perfection, this work would have never been complete. I would like to render my obligation to my brother Rajeev K. Raju and friends Dr. Ali Asghar, Alok Jha, Jai Kishor, Ali Haider, Sanjay, Janmesh, Vinay, B. Shaw, Niraj Gautam, Dr. Javed Iqbal and others without whose help and encouragement it would have been a difficult task for me.

I also acknowledge the tremendous moral support given to me by my family members, especially my wife Sapna and son Anshuman, whose faith in me remained unshaken.

I have been very fortunate to write this thesis in the stimulating environment of Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. My thanks are also owed to staff of JNU Library, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, Institute for Defence Studies and Analysis who helped me in their own ways. Finally a special thanks to Vikram Singh and Tajuddin Akhtar who did the typing work.

Sudhir Kumar Singh