ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis could not have been completed without the support and assistance of many individuals. First and foremost, I would like to thank my supervisor, Prof (Dr) Anil Mehta, who was always ready and eager to help me at each step of the way, and whose feedback and suggestions helped ensure that this would become a quality piece of scholarly work. Prof Mehta’s critically analytical questioning has been invaluable in helping me clarify ideas and his thoughtfulness and scholarly insights have contributed to my thinking and writing. I will remain forever grateful for the advice and encouragement he provided from start to finish.

Secondly, I wish to acknowledge my friend Dr. Abhijeet Chandra for verifying the statistically analysis, whose guidance has stimulated many early thoughts and ideas and contribution in proof-reading my thesis. I wish to acknowledge the contribution of the many of my students of the Banarsidas Chandiwala Institute of Professional Studies Delhi, whose participation in the surveys has provided the data that made this study possible.

This acknowledgement would be incomplete without mentioning my husband Ajit Vashisth, friends, peer learners, and colleagues for the interest shown in my pursuit of this degree, for the continuous support and encouragement. To each and every one of you, I must humbly say, Thank you!
