CONTENTS

Abbreviations 1-3

Glossary 4

Chapter 1: Introduction 5-19

Chapter 2: Issues Related to Protection of Traditional Knowledge - The Global Context 20-52

1. Introduction 20

2. Position of Existing International Regimes vis a vis Protection of Traditional Knowledge 21

3. Access and Benefit Sharing (ABS) as a means to Protect Traditional Knowledge 29

4. Disclosure of Origin as a Means to Protect Traditional Knowledge and ensure PIC and Benefit Sharing 38

5. Documentation of Traditional Knowledge for Prior Art Search 47

6. Existing Traditional Knowledge Protection at the National Level 49

7. Conclusion 51

Chapter 3: Protection of Traditional Knowledge in India 53-89

1. Introduction 53

2. Traditional Medicine System 54

3. Traditional knowledge of Agro-biodiversity 55

4. Biopiracy as the Rationale for Traditional Knowledge Protection 56

5. Efforts to Protect Traditional Knowledge in India 60
6. Interrelationship of Benefit Sharing and Protection of Traditional Knowledge under the PPVFR Act, 2001 and Biological Diversity Act, 2002 and the Patents Act 1970 (as Amended Upto 2002) 76

7. The National Innovation Foundation Model of Benefit Sharing 78

8. Benefit Sharing in Practice 80

9. Analysis of Benefit Sharing Mechanisms in India 87

10. Conclusion 87

Chapter 4: Role of Traditional Knowledge Databases and Registers with Special Reference to India 90-112

1. Introduction 90

2. Comparative Study of Registers and Databases of Traditional Knowledge 92

3. Documentation and Registration of Traditional Knowledge in India 94

4. Traditional Knowledge Digital Library (TKDL) 94

5. Traditional Knowledge Registers in India 96

6. Observations on formation and use of PBRs in 5 villages of Yawatmal, Maharashtra 103

7. Community Biodiversity Registers (CBRs) by Deccan Development Society (DDS), Hyderabad 106

8. Conclusion 109

Chapter 5 Protection of Traditional Knowledge in Bangladesh 113-139

1. Introduction 113

2. Significance of Traditional Agricultural Knowledge in Bangladesh 113
3. Traditional Knowledge of Agriculture and Medicine of the Indigenous Tribes of Bangladesh
4. Traditional Knowledge Related to Medicines
5. Rationale for Protection of Traditional Knowledge of Bangladesh
6. Studies Conducted on the Significance of Traditional Knowledge
7. Role of Customary Law in Protecting Traditional Knowledge and Regulating its Transfer in Bangladesh
8. Protection of Traditional Medicinal System of Bangladesh
9. Conservation of Genetic Resources by Agricultural Research Institutes
10. Role of NGOs in Protection and Conservation of Traditional Knowledge
11. Sui Generis Protection of Traditional Knowledge and Mechanisms for ABS and PIC in Bangladesh
   11.1 The Draft Biodiversity and Community Knowledge Protection Act of Bangladesh 1998
   11.2 The Draft Plant Varieties Act, 1998 of Bangladesh
   11.3 Draft Plant Variety and Farmers Rights Protection Act, 2002
   11.4 Main Features of the Draft Plant Varieties and Farmers’ Rights Protection Act, 2003
   11.5 The Draft Plant Variety and Farmer’s Rights Protection Act, 2006
12. Draft Medicinal Plant Protection Act 2005
13. The National Biodiversity and Strategic Action Plan (NBSAP), 2005
14. Conclusion
Chapter 6 A Comparative Study of Protection of Traditional Knowledge in India and Bangladesh 140-158

1. Introduction 140
2. Traditional Knowledge of Agriculture in India and Bangladesh 141
3. Traditional Medicine System in India and Bangladesh 141
4. Comparative Study of Legislations to Protect Traditional Knowledge in India and Bangladesh 142
5. Access Mechanisms in India and Bangladesh 150
6. Benefit Sharing under the Biodiversity Legislations in India and Bangladesh 152
7. Benefit Sharing under Plant Variety and Farmers’ Rights Legislations in India and Bangladesh 154
8. Farmers’ Right to Reward and Recognition 155
9. Role of NGOs in Traditional Knowledge Protection in India and Bangladesh 156
10. Documentation of Traditional Knowledge in India – Lessons for Bangladesh 157
11. Conclusion 157

Chapter 7: Conclusion 159-171

References 172-187

Annexures