CONTENTS

Acknowledgement iii
List of Maps iv
Glossary of Abbreviations Used v
Arab-Israel / Israeli-Palestinian Conflict Timeline vii
Preface xii

CHAPTER-I
ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN CONFLICT: BRIEF HISTORICAL ACCOUNT

1.1. Introduction 1-12
1.1.2. Theoretical Framework
1.1.3. The Al-Aqsa Intifada and its Impact
1.1.4. Clinton Diplomacy and its Setbacks
1.1.5. 9/11 Impact on the Bush Administration
1.1.6. Peace Process Constraints

1.2. Concise Historical Background 12
1. 2. 1. Zionist Colonist Movement
1. 2. 1. 1. Indigenous Challenge to Zionism
1.2.2. British Colonialism of Palestine
1. 2.2.1. Balfour Declaration
1. 2.2. 2. The UN Partition Plan
1.2.3. The Arab-Israeli War 1948
1.2. 3.1. Flight of the Palestinian Refugees
1.2. 4. The Issues of the West Bank and Gaza Strip

1.3. United States Peacemaking: A Brief Preview 33
1.3.1 Origin of the US Involvement: Pre- 1967
1.3.2. Post- 1967 Arab-Israeli War
1.3.2.1. Yom Kippur- October War 1973
1.3.3. Jimmy Carter Years (1977-81)
1.3.3.1. Camp David Accords (September 1978)
1.3.4. Ronald Reagan Era (1981-89)
1.3.5. George H. W. Bush Years (1989-93) and the First Gulf War
1.3.5.1. Madrid Peace Conference
1.3.6. Clinton Administration and the Peace Process

Conclusion

xvi
CHAPTER -II
US FOREIGN POLICY TOWARDS THE ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN CONFLICT

2.1. US Policy Pillars 49
   2.1.1. The United States Palestinian Policy
   2.1.2. US-Israeli Special Relationship

2.2. Determinants of US Interest 58
   2.2.1. The Post Cold War US Strategic Cooperation
   2.2.2. The Oil Dimension
   2.2.3. Support to Zionist Ideology
   2.2.4. The Pro-Israel Lobby
      2.2.4.1 The Jewish Lobby
      2.2.4.2. American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC)
   2.2.5. Congress Support for the US-Israel Relationship
   2.2.6. A Source of Sympathy

2.3. Combating the Radicalism and Terrorism 68
   2.3.1. 9/11 Impact on Foreign Policy
   2.3.2. US Policy Shift towards Israeli-Palestinian Conflict

2.4. US Israeli-Palestinian Policy: Critical appraisal 75
   2.4.1. A Controversial Honest broker
   2.4.2. Domestic Political Concerns versus Lasting Peace

Conclusion
CHAPTER III
THE AL-AQSA INTIFADA AND ITS IMPACT

3.1. Root of the Al-Aqsa intifada
   3.1.1. Failure of Camp David (July 2000)
   3.1.2. Ariel Sharon’s visit to the Temple Mount
   3.1.3. Control of the Temple Mount
   3.1.4. Failure of the Oslo Process
   3.1.5. Collapse of Palestinian Social Structure

3.2. Dynamic of the Al-Aqsa Intifada
   3.2.1. Younger Generation Factor
   3.2.2. Emergence of Localised Leadership
   3.2.3. Palestinian Politics of Transition
      3.2.3.1. Arafat’s Factor
      3.2.3.2. Corruption of Palestinian Authority
      3.2.3.3. Sideline the US Hegemony
      3.2.3.4. Israeli Political Predicament
   3.2.4. Palestinian Politics of Transition
      3.2.4.1. Arafat’s Factor
      3.2.4.2. Corruption of Palestinian Authority
      3.2.4.3. Sideline the US Hegemony
      3.2.4.4. Israeli Political Predicament

3.3. Role of Palestinian Militant Organisations
   3.3.1. Suicide Bombing and Cycle of Violence
   3.3.2. Objectives of Suicide Bombing
   3.3.3. Hamas suicide Bombings
   3.3.4. Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades

3.4. Israeli Reoccupation and its Catastrophic Impact
   3.4.1. Operation Colourful Journey
   3.4.2. Operation Defensive Shield (ODS)
   3.4.3. Jenin Refugee Camp Confrontation
   3.4.4. Humanitarian and Economic Disaster
      3.4.4.1. House demolitions and Destruction of Agricultural Land
      3.4.4.2. Child Victims
      3.4.4.3. Alleged Extrajudicial Execution
      3.4.4.4. Collective Punishment
      3.4.4.5. Killing Committed by Palestinians
   3.4.5. Israeli Counter Terror campaign
      3.4.5.1. Reaction of International community
      3.4.5.2. Reaction of the Israelis

3.5. Impact of Violence on the Peace Process
   3.5.1. Hostility Stalled Peace Process
   3.5.2. 9/11 Impact on the Al-Aqsa and Peacemaking

Conclusion
CHAPTER- IV
THE ROLE OF BILL CLINTON IN THE ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN PEACE MAKING

4.1. Camp David Talks 2000: Constraint and Perspective
  4.1.1 Clinton Camp David Parameters
    4.1.1.1. Israeli Perception of the Camp David
    4.1.1.2. Palestinian Perception
  4.1.2. Critical Appraisal of the Camp David Talks
    4.1.2.1 Failure of the Camp David Summit
    4.1.2.2. Camp David Prospect and Limitation

4.2. Peace Effort through the Al-Aqsa intifada
  4.2.1. Sharm Al-Shaykh Summit, October 2000

4.3. Clinton Proposals 2000
  4.3.1 Critical Appraisal
    4.3.1.1. Palestinian Perception of Clinton Proposals
    4.3.1.2. Israeli position on the Clinton Proposals

4.4. Taba Talks January 2001
  4.4.1. Clinton and the Peacemaking: An Assessment

Conclusion
CHAPTER V
THE GEORGE W. BUSH ADMINISTRATION IN THE PEACEMAKING

5.1. Bush Administration Approach to the Conflict 153
   5.1.1 Mitchell Commission Report (30 April 2001)
   5.1.2 Tenet Cease-Fire Plan (10 June 2001)

5.2. 9/11 and Its Impact 157
   5.2.1. The US Foreign Policy Predicament since 9/11
   5.2.2. Lukewarm American Engagement
      5.2.2.1. Anthony Zinni Diplomacy

5.3. George W. Bush Proposals (24 June 2002) 161
   5.3.1. Critical Appraisal

5.4. The Roadmap 2003 165
   5.4.1. Palestinian Response
   5.4.2. Israeli Response
   5.4.3. Critical Appraisal
      5.4.3.1. The Road Close

5.5. The Sharm Al-Shaykh and the Aqaba Summits (June 2003) 173
   5.5.2. A Superficial Truce
      5.5.2.1. Palestinian Leadership Standoff

5.6. Sharon Disengagement Plan: A Peacemaking Deadlock 177
   5.6.1. Separation Fence
   5.6.2. Bush’s Endorsement: The US Policy Paradigm Shift

5.7. George W. Bush and the Peacemaking: An Assessment 181
   5.7.1. Contrasts between Bill Clinton Parameters and Bush Plan

Conclusions
CHAPTER VI
CONCLUSION

6.1. United States Mediation Predicament
   6.1.2. West Asian Oil Interest
   6.1.3. Clinton Diplomacy and its Setback
   6.1.4. George Bush Peacemaking Dilemma
   6.1.5. Policy Paradigm Shift since 9/11
   6.1.6. Domestic Political Concerns versus Peace

6.2. Extremist Elements Thwart the Peace Process
   6.2.1. Al-Aqsa Intensified the Conflict
   6.2.2. The Peace Process Impasse
   6.2.3. The End of an Era

Appendices

Bibliography