Acknowledgements

I am grateful to Dr. Nilmanodhav Sen M.A. D.Litt. (Cal), Reader in Sanskrit Linguistics, University of Poona, for having accepted me as one of his students. I cannot thank him adequately for his encouragement and guidance. He has meant more than a research-guide to me.

I wish to thank Professor A.M. Chatage, Director, Deccan College of Post-Graduate and Research Institute, for his personal help in various ways.

Dr. A.R. Kelkar, Professor of Applied Linguistics, Deccan College, was kind enough to suggest me the present topic. I am grateful to him for this and for many other suggestions for the improvement of my work.

I was much benefited by the discussions those I had on various occasions relating to my topic and General Linguistics with Dr. Peri Bhaskara Rao, Reader in Dravidian Linguistics, Deccan College.

Mr. G. Trivikramaiya, my friend and colleague has been the greatest source of inspiration throughout my stay in India. Mr. Trivikramaiya was kind enough to go through the preliminary draft of my thesis and to offer suggestions wherever necessary.

I am grateful to many of my teachers of the Department of Bengali, University of Dacca, for their helps and constant enquiries about the progress of my work. I am particularly grateful to Professor Rafiquil Islam for supplying me with books from his personal collections and to Professor Mansur Musa for sending me the XEROX copy of Charles Ferguson’s thesis "The phonology and Morphology of the standard colloquial Bengali " from Dacca.

My thanks are also due to Mr. Siddique Chowdhury, for allowing me to use the rare copy of (History of Sandvip ), by Rajkumar Chakrabarty and Ananga Mohan Das.

I am thankful to the Librarians and the staffs of Deccan College Library, National Library of India, Calcutta, and Calcutta University Library, Calcutta for giving me all the necessary facilities to complete my work.
This work has been possible under the scholarship-scheme of the Ministry of Education and Social Welfare, Govt. of India, for the nationals of Bangladesh (1974-75).

Apart from acknowledging the academic indebtedness, I would like to express my gratitude to my aunt Mrs. Anjali Sen, for her motherly affection which I always will cherish as a sweet memory of my three years stay in India.

Finally, I thank Mr. D. D. Phadke of 243, Shivajinagar, Poona-5, for his patience, confidence and efficient typing of such a difficult manuscript.