ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am greatly indebted to all the people who helped me in various ways in completing this study. I would like to recognize and appreciate their significant role in helping me to reach this milestone.

Words are inadequate to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Ashok Thorat for his insightful comments, valuable guidance and sympathetic assistance at every stage of this study. It has been an enriching and stimulating experience for me to have had a mentor like him. My sincere thanks to him for offering me a lot of professional and personal support during my study. He taught me ‘to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield’.

My special thanks are due to my teacher Dr. Claudia Lange, Lecturer in Linguistics at Technische Universitat, Dresden, Germany for providing me with the latest articles on the subject and for encouraging me. I also wish to thank Dr. B.S. Valke and Prof. K.S. Iyer for their generosity and help at different stages of this research. They instilled in me confidence to soar high.

I had the privilege of discussing my research topic with renowned linguists like Dr. Rajendra Singh from University of Montreal, Canada; Dr. Prabhakar Babu from CIEFL, Hyderabad; Dr. Gerhard Leitner from Freie Universität, Berlin, Germany; Dr. Lachman Khubchandani, Director of the Centre for Communication Studies, Pune; Dr. P.K. Nihalani from Brunei and Dr. Jean D’Souza from Pune. I owe a debt of gratitude to all of them for guiding me towards a more refined perspective. My humble thanks to Prof. Peter Bendall from the University of Cambridge and Prof. Jane Setter, Prof. Judith Baxter, Prof. Alan Tonkyn, Prof. Jacqueline Laws and Prof. John Field from the University of Reading for showing keen interest in the topic of my research and providing valuable guidance.

I would like to thank Dr Gerald Nelson from University College, London and Dr S.V. Shastri from Shivaji University, Kolhapur for having readily provided me with access to the Indian Component of the International Corpus of English and the Kolhapur Corpus of English.

Research involves a lot of reading and the scholastic environment and the generous help offered by the library staff of Jaykar Library, University of Pune; The British Library, Deccan College, Pune and CIEFL, Hyderabad made the whole process a joyful and fruitful one. I sincerely thank the library staff for giving me a free access to the ocean of knowledge on the bookshelves.
I wish to put on record my gratitude to Dr. Deepak Desai for giving me the best treatment after my accident and motivating me to complete my research. I would also like to thank Prof. A.B. Deshpande, Principal, BMCC for his constant encouragement and support.

My heartfelt thanks to my friends Abdul Momen, Prabhanjan Mane and Prof. Rohit Kawale for their unconditional support and help in carrying out this work successfully.

My students Shweta, Leena, Ashok, Atul, Dhananjay, Prashant and Litton deserve a special mention as they stood by me and were always willing to offer their help in many different ways. I am immensely thankful to my student Nitin Pote for typing this thesis so meticulously and also for extending his cooperation at different stages of this research.

I must thank my parents for being my first educators and life’s anchor. My sincere thanks to my father and teacher Professor Shridhar Gokhale and my brother Milind, who have been my pillars of strength and encouragement at each step of this endeavour. It is my father, who created in me love for English grammar. I would like to thank him for his excellent guidance and also for teaching me to think clearly and consistently. Many thanks to my aunt Mrs.
Padmashri Sane for boosting my confidence.

Finally, I wish to thank each and everyone who directly or indirectly supported me in this research.

Madhuri Gokhale