ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to my supervisor Dr. Jimut Kanti Ghosh, without whom I could never imagine of completing my thesis. He gave me a new life when I was on the verge of losing every hope to save my career as well as individuality and existence. He has always been compassionate and supportive to me during my bad times. It is because of him that my name is still there in this institution and I have come up to this stage when I have been provided the opportunity to write this acknowledgement. In fact, I will never be able to pay his debts in this life. He has been a very patient teacher, a caring guardian and a well wisher throughout, and I will always keep in my conscience what he has taught me, be it the lesson of research, or the lesson of life.

I attribute my sincere thanks to Dr. C. M. Gupta, former Director CDRI for providing me the necessary facility and support through out the period and also for granting me extension of tenure so that I could complete the research work. Acknowledgements

I acknowledge the trainees Aslam, Rohit, Naveen, Magesh, Swati, Satish, Sanjeev, Sunitha, Atish, Varun, Anurag, Shalini and Somesh for their assistance in syntheses and purification work as well for helping me in various ways during the study period. I also want to thank our laboratory attendant Arvind for being of great help at times of need.

Words will not suffice to express the contribution of my parents and sisters in my career as well in my whole life. They made me smile when I was in pain, they held me with strength when I was about to fall, and encouraged me whenever I was in despair. It is their love, support and motivation that I can stand on my own feet. It is my parents’ and grandfather’s affection and education that turned an ignorant and timid child like me into a mature individual. My dear sisters always looked after me with great care and love even though I was elder to them. The depth of their unconditional love can not be measured. I can only realize it and respect the feeling from the depth of my heart.

I would be failing in my endeavor if I do not mention the name of my loving husband, who accepted me with all my shortcomings and weaknesses. He proved to be a real partner and companion and gave me enough space to maintain my individuality as well. He helped me throughout in every possible way. I will always respect him for the favors he has done to me.

I am thankful to my father in law, mother in law, brother in law and sisters in law for being cooperative and tolerant and giving me enough freedom to do things in my own way.

I can not dare skip mentioning my immense sense of gratitude to the Omnipresent Almighty who showered His mercy and gave me courage to sustain my entity despite all the odds of life.

Finally, I acknowledge the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research for providing financial support in this study.
