ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

An intellectual debt is too complex to acknowledge in a brief space. I have incurred several debts in the completion of this work which deserve much more than the customary acknowledgement. First and foremost in the list is Dr. K.C. Sankaranarayanan, Professor and Head of the Department of Applied Economics. I am deeply indebted to him for his invaluable guidance, vast scholarship and benign personality. This work would not have been possible but for the persistent inspiration and encouragement which I got from him in ample measure.

My boundless gratitude is due to Dr. K.K. George, Professor, School of Management Studies, who helped me most sincerely, especially at the early stages of my research work. Thanks are also due to Dr. Jose, T. Kasyappilly, Professor, Dr. N.C. Pillai, Reader and Dr. Mary Joseph, School of Management Studies for their timely help.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. M.K. Sukumaran Nair, Reader, Department of Applied Economics, for all manner of contributions, both intellectual and practical.

My sincere thanks are due to Mr. Chandradath, Mr. C.V. George, Smt. Valsamma Paul and Smt. V. Alamma of the Department of Applied Economics who took real interest to get things done during the course of the study.

I will be failing in my duty if I don't gratefully acknowledge the co-operation and sincere help received from Miss. Elizabeth, Librarian, Department of Applied Economics. A special word of thanks is due to Mr. Scaria Varghese, Librarian, and Alassankutty of the School of Management Library for their timely help.

My heartfelt thanks are due to the Librarians and other staff of the Institute for Social and Economic Change (Bangalore), Centre for Development Studies (Trivandrum), Department of Commerce and Management Studies (Calicut), Kerala Agricultural University (Vellanikkara) and University Library, Cochin University of Science and Technology, Cochin-22.

I extend my sincere gratitude to Dr. Thimmalash (Ex-Director), Dr. Abdul Aziz (Professor, Economics Unit), Dr. Rayappa (Professor, Demography Unit) and Dr. Hemalatha Rao of the Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore, with whom I had enlightening discussions.

I am highly grateful to Dr. V.M. Rao (Professor, Rural Studies Unit) Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore who had first inspired me to work in this direction and provided a perspective for the study.

I will be failing in my duty, if I do not express my deep sense of gratitude to Rev. Sr. Stella Maria, first Principal, Vimala College, Trichur, who inspired me with the idea of doing research. I acknowledge my deep sense of gratitude to Rev. Sr. Philomena, Rev. Sr. Caniasia and Rev. Sr. Chrisaloga, the successive Principals for their kind help, encouragement and prayers. I gratefully express my deep sense of gratitude to Rev. Mother Cleopatra, Manager for her loving encouragement and prayers.

I have had the benefit of the comments and criticisms of a number of people. Among them Prof. George Zacharias, Christian College, Chengannur deserves special mention. I am grateful to all of them for the discussions I had with them in the various stages of my work.

I owe a lot to the University Grants Commission for the award of Teacher-Fellowship under the F.I.P. for pursuing this course. I also thank the Director of Collegiate Education and the Secretary to Government for sanctioning the deputation.

I acknowledge the co-operative and helpful attitude of my colleagues especially Mr. V.L. Abraham and Mr. K.J. Antony for their unfailing love and constant encouragement.
During the course of my work I received considerable help from my students. I gratefully thank Syamala, Thasneem, Binu, Nimmy, Jyothi, Priya and Reeba for their statistical assistance. I also thank Mr. Sathish for computer work.

I appreciate the help which I received from Sri. Somasundaran, Village Assistant, Muttil North for the neat drawing of the Map of Muttil. I also acknowledge Mr. Manilal, Department of Marine Geology of Cochin University for the pains taken in the preparation of other maps.

I also cherish fond feelings of gratitude to my fellow research scholars and friends especially, Dr. Saly, Dr. Lizzy, Raju, Sunny, Antony, Elizabeth, Usha and Suja for their wholehearted support and generous help.

I must thank most profoundly all those who agreed to be interviewed, sometimes for hours together, patiently answering my rambling questions which jumped from subject to subject and made the past come alive for me. I am specially indebted to the villagers for the wealth of information they supplied me in informal conversations. Without their friendly and unspiring cooperation such a work would have been impossible. Practically everywhere I came across officials and villagers who talked to me very frankly even about sensitive issues. I owe the success of this study to the poor but honest people of Thazhava, Pananchery and Muttil who never made me feel that I was a stranger to them.

I wish to express my sincere gratitude beyond the usual form, to Prof. Gopal Menon for reading the manuscript and making valuable suggestions on the overall layout and particular content of the individual chapters. I am most grateful to him for his painstaking work in correcting my poor English.

I owe a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Bharathy for the skilled job of converting the manuscript into typescript so neatly and in time.

My acknowledgement to my wife, Saly, goes beyond the usual custom of thanking one's wife. She has not only borne my repeated absence from home patiently, but have shown sustained interest in the work which I found encouraging. On this occasion, I also remember my four-year-old son - Sharon - who in a sense had borne the real cost of this work.

I am indebted to the authors whom I have quoted in the present study. Last but not least, the blessings and prayers of my parents, teachers, colleagues, fellow research scholars and students were always with me throughout my work. My sense of obligation to them is too deep for words.
