ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I could complete my doctoral studies with the help and well wishes of many people. It is difficult to mention each of them by name here; however, I thank them with my heart.

With all my sincerity I owe a deep debt of gratitude to my guide Dr. P. P. Bawale. His brilliant guidance and kind understanding of my various problems enabled me to complete my work in time.

I am equally grateful to Dr. C. G. Vaidya, Head of the Department of Commerce and Management Science, University of Poona for his kind cooperation and valuable suggestion during my stay at Pune.

I am also obliged to Dr. G. J. Khudanpur for his valuable comments and suggestion which have proved quite useful to me.

I am also thankful to the staffs of the Jayakar Library, University of Poona, Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics and Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Cooperative Management for their help and cooperation.
I am short of words to express my deep feelings for my dearest parents and family members without whose support I would not have stayed for such a long time out of my country.

I am grateful to the Government of India for bestowing on me a scholarship under the TCS of Colombo Plan.

My indebtedness to Government of Nepal, specially to Agriculture Inputs Corporation, Kathmandu, Nepal, is profoundly deep for granting me study leave.

I am particularly grateful to all my respondents for sharing with me their life time experiences. Their responses constitute the soul of this research work. Though I can not mention them by name, I owe a deep debt of gratitude.

I thank Mr. S. E. Surve for typing and Mr. B. H. Joshi for giving me statistical help. Also thanks to my friends of Nepal Mr. Bala Ram Dhoudyal, Mr. Prakash Man Shrestha, Mr. Binod Kumar Upadhaya and Mr. Damodar Prashad Ghairee for their help in providing data and necessary materials of my work.
Finally, I acknowledge my immense debt to my wife, Mrs. Yamuna Pradhan, whose cooperation and appreciation enabled me to realize my dream. Most of all, I am puzzled whether to thank or to apologize to my two belovedes - very little ones - Niwedita and Niwesh - who missed a lot of their father when they needed him most.

NARAYAN KRISHNA PRADHAN

Department of Commerce
& Management Science,
University of Poona,
PUNE: 411 007.