BIBLIOGRAPHY*

A. PRIMARY SOURCES

I. Select Documents, Official Statements and Speeches

* The Bibliography contains a major reference material on the subject; not all of these have directly been used in the text.

II. Memoirs/Selected Writings:

199
Gorbachev, Mikhail S. A Time for Peace (New York: Richardson & Steirman, 1985).

———. Moratorium (Moscow: Novosti Press, 1986).

III. Institutional Publications:

———. Strategic Survey (Annual Publication).

———. Whence the Threat to Peace. 1987.

B. SECONDARY SOURCES

I. Books/Monographs

Grechko, A.A. The Armed Forces of Soviet Union (Moscow: Progress, 1977).

Lall, K.B., H.S. Chopra, Thomas Meyer (eds). EC 92, United Germany and the Changing World Order, (New Delhi; Radiant, 1993). See the article by M. Zuberi, "NATO, the Warsaw Pact and the CSCE: New Wine in Old Bottles".

Morgenthau, Hans J. Politics Among Nations [Indian Reprint], (New Delhi, Kalyani Publishers, 1985).

Naidu, M.V. Alliances and Balance of Power, (Delhi: Macmillan, 1974).

Sherr, Alan B. The Other Side of Arms Control, (Boston: Unwin Hyman, 1988).

Yefremov, A.Y. Nuclear Disarmament (Moscow: Progress, 1979).

II. Articles in Periodicals/Journals

Deane, Michael J. "The Soviet Assessment of the 'Correlation of World Forces': Implications for American Foreign Policy, Orbis, 20(3), Fall 1976, 625-636.

Gordon, Michael R. "INF: A Hollow Victory?" Foreign Policy, Fall 1987, 159-79.

Gray and Keith Payne. "Victory is Possible", Foreign Policy, No.39, Summer 1980, 14-27.

Haley, P. Edward. "'You could have said yes': Lessons from Reykjavik", Orbis, Spring 1987, 75-97.

Nye, Joseph S. "Arms Control After the Cold War", Foreign Affairs, 68(5), Winter 1989/90, 42-64.

Schelling, Thomas C. "What went wrong with Arms Control?" Foreign Affairs, Winter 1985-86.

