CHAPTER I: INTRODUCTION 1-11

I. Statement of Problem
II. Objectives of the study
III. Hypothesis
IV. Research Methodology
V. Organization of the Study

CHAPTER II: GERONTOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVE AND ITS RELEVANCE IN THE STUDY OF LAW IN INDIA 12-28

I. Introduction
II. Meaning of gerontology and geriatrics
III. History of gerontology
IV. Parameters of the study of gerontology
V. Legal implications of gerontology
VI. Conclusion

CHAPTER III: SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND DEMOGRAPHIC DIMENSIONS OF THE PROBLEMS OF AGED PEOPLE IN INDIA 29-54

I. Introduction
II. Demographic transition
III. Magnitude of problems
IV. Analysis
V. Effect or Consequences
VI. Conclusion
CHAPTER IV: GLOBAL STANDARD UNDER INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS LAW FOR THE PROTECTION AND PROMOTION OF AGED PEOPLE 55 – 86

I. Introduction

II. Development of Law at International level

III. Other international documents for the protection of interest of aged persons

IV. Regional instruments for protection of interest of older persons

V. Conclusion

CHAPTER V: INDIAN LEGAL SYSTEM AND GOVERNMENT POLICIES FOR THE AGED PEOPLE 87 - 116

I. Introduction

II. Constitutional safeguards for senior citizens

III. Statutory safeguards for senior citizens

IV. Policies and schemes for older persons

V. Conclusion

CHAPTER VI: GERONTOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVE AND EVALUATIONS OF EXISTING PROVISIONS WITH RESPECT TO PRIVILEGES AND FACILITIES UNDER LEGAL SYSTEM 117-159

I. Introduction

II. Health and medical care

III. Monetary benefits

IV. Concessions

V. Facilities

VI. Conclusion
CHAPTER VII: ROLE OF NGOs IN THE PROTECTION & PROMOTION OF INTEREST OF AGED PEOPLE 160-187

I. Introduction
II. Meaning of NGO and nature
III. Various NGOs working in India
IV. Conclusion

CHAPTER VIII: A SOCIO-LEGAL SURVEY OF AGED PEOPLE IN THE SANGLI DISTRICT 188-218

I. Introduction
II. Collection of Data and Sample Selection
III. Analysis and Interpretation of Data
IV. Findings

CHAPTER IX: REVIEW OF RECENT PARLIAMENTARY BILL 219-235

I. Introduction
II. Historical Background of the Act
III. Salient Features of the Act
IV. Criticism of the Act
V. Importance of the Act
VI. Conclusion

CHAPTER X: CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS 236-250