Acknowledgement

At the outset, I would like to express my profound gratitude to Professor R. R. Krishnan, my supervisor, for his constant encouragement, insightful comments, sagacious advice and tremendous support throughout the course of this work. Wide-ranging and unconstrained discussions with him over the years were a precious part of my education at Jawaharlal Nehru University.

It is a pleasure to thank His Excellency Kwon Soon-Tae, Ambassador of the Republic of Korea, for his encouragement and help to pursue research on Korea.

I am greatly indebted to the Korea Foundation, Seoul for awarding me the Fellowship for Field Research in Korea. During my fieldwork as a KF Fellow at Seoul (January-July 2003), several institutes, libraries and individuals assisted me in material and data collection. Officials at the Ministry of Science and Technology, National Library, National Assembly Library, Korea Development Institute, KDO School of Public Policy, Science and Technology Policy Institute, Korea Institute of Science and Technology Evaluation and Planning, Korea Institute of Science and Technology, Samsung Economic Research Institute - all extended their fullest cooperation by providing me the relevant documents and reports.

I also benefited from the library of JNU, World Bank, UN Information Centre and Asia Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology, New Delhi.

I am deeply grateful to Professor Song Sang Yong, who was my research coordinator during my stay in Seoul. He went through my earlier draft and offered valuable suggestions. Without his immense help my Korea sojourn would have been incomplete. Discussions with Prof. Kim Dong Won of KAIST and Dr. Kim Sea-Sun of MOST, Seoul also contributed to my understanding of the issues concerning this thesis.

Dr. Lalima Varma, Chairperson of the Centre for East Asian Studies, took keen interest in my research for which I am thankful to her. I also thank the staff of the Centre for their cooperation.

Many friends offered their assistance in my difficult hours. I express my special thanks to Uimal Anand, Bachuda, Chinmoy Bhai, Naresh, Giridhari, Kuna, Chitto, Chitra, Sandip, Bishu, Brajesh and Jaswant.

Writing this thesis has been a huge commitment not only for me but also for my family. I deeply appreciate and shall always be grateful for their unstinting support and prayers for the completion of this work.

Finally, nobody other than I myself must be held responsible for any errors that might have remained undetected.

New Delhi
August 12, 2003 (KAMAL KISHORE PANDA)