ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Internal Security Studies & Cyber Security Studies in India are in the early but very important phase. To take up such a current topic for my research was challenging but also an exciting task. I was inspired, guided, mentored, supported and pushed by everyone around me. I hope to do justice by naming and thanking a few of them.

Dr. Kishor Jos, my supervisor has been the key person whose constant guidance and encouragement made this journey of research interesting. He stood by every single argument, discussion and conversation around the topic and skillfully pushed me to think broader and deeper. Without his complete support, this might have been an arduous task. I am indebted to him.

I heartfully thank Dr. Sanjay Jha, Dean-School of International Studies for all the academic inputs and administrative assistance. VC, Prof. S.A Bari for the trust & thrust. I must place in record my first interaction at Central University of Gujarat was with Prof. R.K Kale, then VC of the University, who had confidence in me and asked me to pursue this doctorate.

My fellow colleagues have offered help and support in every way possible and when my family moved to Bangalore, they stood by me and encouraged me to continue. I have to make a special mention about Mansukh and Mayur for their helpful ways.

My family has always completed me. I have no words to thank my husband Vishnu who has been accommodating and did all the fire fighting through this period of research. My son Vibhu has uncomplainingly accepted my work hours and been game to it. My dad , brother , in-laws , other family members and friends have also been supportive of my decision to pursue research. They have all been a pillar of strength and support. I would not have even attempted this without such a support from each one of them.

I am also grateful to my friends and local host, Dr. Bimal Patel and Rupal who have guided me and accepted me as part of their family. I am thankful to all others who stood by me and offered encouragement - both mentioned and inadvertently missed.

Again, I bow down to all those who inspired me.
