ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Professor S. A. Bari, Honourable Vice-Chancellor Central University Gujarat, for his constant inspiration, encouragement and support.

I am thankful to Prof. N. Rajaram, the Dean of the school of social sciences, for his constant encouragement.

I express my deep gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Indira Dutta, Chairperson, Centre for Studies and Research in Economics and Planning, for her continuous support, excellent inputs and guidance. Without her patience, constant motivation and enthusiasm, this work would not have materialized.

I am thankful to Dr. Jaya Prakash Pradhan, Dr. Vinod Sen, Dr. Sarala Dasari, Dr. Kshamanidhi Adabar, Dr. Tulika Tripathi, Dr. T.R.Bishnoi, Dr. A. Mehta and Mayank Sir for their never ending support.

I am thankful to the Library and Administrative Staffs at Central University of Gujarat for extending all assistance during various phases of my academic pursuance.

Words fail to thank Sadguru Foundation, Anarde Foundation, DRDA Dahod, DRDA Mehsana and GLPC who have given me enough support during my field visits.

I am extremely thankful to the women members of Self Help Groups of Dahod and Mehsana. Their narratives of struggle and hope, despair and joy have given me excellent opportunities to know the ground realities of their lives. Personally, I went as a stranger and came back a friend.

Supports from my friends Margee, Jiya, Ashok, Rajesh, Nizam Vandana, Kanika, Premi and others have given me enough strength to finish my thesis, and for so, I am acknowledging all of them.

Last but not the least, the completion of this work would not have been possible without ever ending support and encouragement of my parents and siblings. I am especially thankful to my husband for motivating me various phases for the final accomplishment of my research work.
