Acknowledgements

This work took a long time as I did take breaks in between by choice. In a way I feel this has been a boon in disguise as these unscheduled breaks enriched my research work in ways more than one. Throughout this period, I grabbed any opportunity that came my way so as to improve my academic insight. Even then, I am sure there are a few related themes that remain untouched in this thesis which can be worked upon in future.

Acknowledgement is the simplest way to express my gratitude towards teachers, friends, colleagues and the innumerable port persons whom I met in connection with my work. I sincerely express my thankfulness to all those who had taken time out from their respective busy schedules to help me with a welcome smile. I was lucky to interact with a host of port professionals and academicians, some being named and some remain unnamed, unintentionally. I must admit that I enjoyed this learning process and own up all responsibility for any omission and shortcoming in this work.

I sincerely express my thankfulness to:

- Jawaharlal Nehru University – the institution, which provided me the academic platform to carry on research and University Grants Commission for providing fellowship which, eased my financial position.
- Prof. Atiya Habeeb Kidwai, my supervisor. Her patience and cooperation at every stage has been very encouraging. Besides learning to work on my thesis at a very elemental level, I learnt many other things from her for which I am indebted. Her constructive criticism pulled out the best in me. She has been my friend, philosopher and guide. I also take this opportunity to express my gratitude to her family who were very co-operative, especially Prof. H.R. Kidwai, whom I disturbed too often. I hope he would forgive me.
- Prof. Sunanda Sen from CESP who gave valuable suggestions which I incorporated in my thesis.
- Prof. Amitabh Kundu, who has extended his help very gladly whenever I approached him. Prof. Ravi Srivastav for his cooperation to attend the three-member meeting despite being down with fever. I am thankful to you both for being so understanding.

- All other faculty members and staff of CSRD who were very helpful and co-operative.

- Indian Ports Association (IPA), New Delhi which has been the main fountain of source for all relevant information that I needed. Several persons in IPA need special mention. Mr. Amol Chakravorty, ex-Managing Director, Indian Ports Association Had it been not for his cooperation and support, it would have been extremely difficult for me to conduct my research. It was a pleasure to interact with him at an academic and personal level. Right from developing my understanding into the working of the port sector to introducing me to several port persons from all over India, he had extended help at all possible levels. I take this opportunity to thank him.

I must express my thankfulness to all other staff at IPA who extended their generous help whenever I approached them.

- My field visit was at Visakhapatnam. It would not have been possible to conduct an organised field trip if I never got help and co-operation from:

  - Mr. Dhanaraju, Deputy Chairman, VPT
  - Ms. Jayanthi, Planning Cell, VPT
  - Mr. Suryanarayana, Planning Cell, VPT
  - Mr. Ganga Reddy, Chairman, VUDA
  - Mr. Appa Rao, Chairman, Dolphin Group of Industries and
  - Mr. Tirupathi Raju, Vice- President, East India Petroleum and an ex-port person.

  He introduced me to various port users among whom I conducted my interviews. Moreover, he sincerely send me some information which I personally could not collect during my visit to Visakhapatnam. I am extremely grateful to him

- It was on a CIDA-SICI project that I visited York University, Toronto, Canada in Fall 1999. Though this trip was not related to my thesis directly but I did collect some port-related literature from various libraries at Toronto in my free time, which enriched my literature survey. I thank Prof. Peter Penz, Director, Centre for Refugee Studies, York University, who granted me permission to photocopy and download several articles on my subject when I was at York.

- I take this opportunity to thank my friends at Toronto - Sumana, Sumit, Karine, Laurie, Janet and Alejandra who made me feel at home in an alien land. Other friends back home need special mention. Swagata, Rachana, Rochanadi, Smriti, and others who always encouraged me whenever I became impatient. They never lost hope that this effort would someday materialize.

- My family and in-laws had been most supporting during this long phase of thesis writing. They always assured me that they were by me through thick and thin and never made me feel guilty due to negligence of family duties. I am grateful to them.

- Ma, the soul behind this work who always told me that behind every cloud there is a silver lining. She came to my rescue at all odd times, whenever I needed her leaving aside all her other priorities. She provided me all the mental strength to overcome this long research tenure. I can never repay her nor intend to and can only pray for her well being.

- My late father, who wanted his children to make him proud. I do not know if I can ever achieve so but it surely kindled a fire of ambition in me. He is no more to see my efforts in this pursuit but I am sure he has showered his blessings on me.

- My late mother-in-law who never differentiated between her son and me and encouraged me to finish my thesis first. I am sure her blessings are always with me.

- Lastly, Neeraj, who adjusted to my moody behavior not once, but several times. His long absence in my final phase of submission made me realise how important he was in my life. He has been a silent pillar of strength and provided me constant support in all possible ways. I admit that I could not have asked for more from a husband.
