It has been my proud privilege to have my research under the guidance of Prof. Saroja Bhate, whose constant encouragement, moral support and die-hard spirit inspired me to venture into this field of manuscriptology. I have no words to express my gratitude to her. The help I got from her in professional as well as in personal life is tremendous. I wish my gratitude for allowing me to work on Kāśikā, providing me all kind of support and facilities and co-operating me in all possible ways starting from the visit of the University of Lausanne, Switzerland in April 1997 to August 1997.

Prof. Johannes Bronkhorst, Professor, University of Lausanne, deserves my sincere thanks for selecting me as a student in the University of Lausanne, Switzerland and thus inspired me to study the Kāśikā manuscripts during my stay there. The parental love, affection, care and guidance I got from him during my stay in Lausanne, is unforgettable. I am also thankful to Dr. Yves Ramseire, Senior Research Assistant, University of Lausanne for moral support, erudite advices and constructive criticisms on the way of working together.

I have to acknowledge the support provided by Department of Culture, Ministry of Tourism and Culture, Government of India, for the substantial financial help, by selecting me for the award of junior fellowship without which it would have been impossible for me to complete this work.

I owe my thanks to Dr. Satkari Mukhopadhyaya, National Coordinator, IGNCA for his constant encouragement and help while learning manuscriptology and paleography in national workshop jointly organized by I.G.N.C.A and University of Pune, which have given a chance to handle the manuscript in a professional way.

The blessings and enlightening guidance of eminent scholars and veteran experts have always been with me to achieve the success so far. The inspirations of Prof. T. N. Dharmadhikari, Vaidic Samshodhan Mandal, Pune; Prof. S. R Sarma, AMU, Aligarh; Dr. H.G. Ranade, Deccan College, Pune; Prof. S. D. Joshi, stalwart in grammar and Ex-Director, CASS, Pune; Prof. Laddu, eminent scholar and Ex-Director, CASS, Pune; has always guided me towards success.

In the way of learning the manuscriptology and referring the manuscripts, I have taken help and guidance from many people, libraries and institutions. Space restrains me to take the name of each of them. I cannot stop from mentioning the help of Dr. Prakash Pandey, GJRI, Allahabad for giving me insights in Sàradà script; Dr. Ratna Vasu, Asiatic Society Calcutta, for teaching me the scripts like Nandinagari, Newari, Gaudi, Maithili etc. with great care. Pandit Jagganath from Mysore has helped to me to learn the Grantha script.

In the process of collecting and analyzing the manuscripts, many libraries have provided support and help for my work. I am thankful for the help of Dr. V. L. Manjul of Bhandarkar Oriental Institute, Pune; Prof. G.C. Tripathi, Allahabad; Dr. M. D. Pandit, University of Pune and many more. As institutions I am indebted the authorities of Oriental Institute, Mysore; Asiatic Society, West Bengal; Oriental Institute, Tiruvanantapuram; Bhandarkar Oriental Institute, Pune; Deccan College, Pune; Bharat Itihas Samshodhan Mandal, Pune; and other many personal libraries, collections and institutions. I would mention my gratitude to P.L. Shaji, Oriental Institute, Tiruvanantapuram and Sesnarayan Sukla, Hindi Sahitya Sammelan, Allahabad for sending me manuscripts.

My Alma Mater, University of Pune has provided me all kinds of logistic support relating to this work including financial assistance in the form of scholarships etc. I express my appreciation to the librarian and the staff of the Department of Sanskrit and Prakrit Languages for extending their help to me in various ways.

I offer my hearty thanks to Mr. Ganesh Kale, Mac Centre, Pune who helped me in such an excellent way by providing his own Mac computer and helped me out in the time of need. It is impossible to forget his noble endeavor.

I am greatly indebted to my beloved husband, Mr. Jibanananda Khuntia, who has helped me in every step of my research. The technical and moral support, co-operation, advices, constructive criticism etc. that are extended by him in many forms encouraged and inspired me, and worked as the underneath current that driven me in heralding the successful completion of this project. Without his help it would not have seen the light of the day.

The support encouragement and help to overcome all sorts of difficulties extended by my parents, in-laws and family cannot be acknowledged by mere thanks. They always remain the deep source of inspiration behind the force within me. My colleagues and friends are not to be left behind although naming them will be difficult in this space. I will always appreciate the help extended by dear Ranjita, Satya, Samshad, Munmi towards the completion of this thesis.

Last but not least, I acknowledge all who have been, in the remotest way, been connected directly and indirectly with my venture.
