ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Many people helped me in completing my Ph.D thesis. It is my pleasant duty to acknowledge them here. First of all, Dr. Ganganath Jha, my supervisor has taken lots of pains to read my chapters and encouraged me at a time I needed it most.

My field work to Australia had taught me a few things in a very profound manner. The trip had been quite eventful. I was mugged in Canberra, just before Christmas, a Christmas I will never forget in my whole life. The research work in Canberra was made easy by the research scholars, administrators, the librarians et.al. The faculty at the RSPAS, The ANU, Canberra, had been most helpful, especially Dr. Greg Austine from the Centre of North-east Asia, who was kind enough to teach me to use computer, through his daughter. Dr. Steward Woodman, from Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (SDSC) gave some useful hints for the Chapter V and had long discussions with me. Prof. Paul Dibb, Prof. Desmond Ball , Ms. Pauline Kerr, Prof. Stuart Harris and Dr. Greg Fry had given useful insights into the subject, for which I am grateful.

The also thank Dr. B.D. Arora for helping me in the early stages of My Ph.D and Prof. Nancy Jetly the Chairperson of my centre has been quite nice to me. I am utterly indebted to the JNU Library, the Indian Defence and Strategic Analysis (IDSA), Mr. Ramesh for letting me use the Australian High Commission Library. I would also like to thank A.N.U. Library Staff and the Library Staff of Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (A.N.U.) Canberra.

I am grateful to my parents, my brother and sister, and my twin-sister, who made me analyze the essence of sincerity and hard-work. The choosing of the topic had been as hard as completing it. In this difficult period, I was helped all along by my best friend Subodh Kumar, who not only pinpointed the numerous grammatical mistakes I made in my thesis but also has acted as a shock absorber. I am at a loss of words in rightly thanking him. I am happy to thank my two nephew’s Priam and Joy.

The friends I made in Australian National University, who helped me to come over the hard time were Bina D’ Costa, Rajesh Chauhan and Grayson Lloyd and Kevin. I am happy to find such nice people and good friends in a foreign land. I also thank Premi, Anandita, Komal and Kamlesh for being quite helpful to me.

I heartily thank Mr. Praveen, Mr. Kaushal, Mr. Sanjay and Mr. Bhaskar for taking pains in typing my bad writing and bring out marvelous affects of their hard work for my Thesis.
