ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is the end of the five years but when I look back I wonder has it really been this long for me here. I can still smell the aroma of the lab on my first day and the words of Sir, Prof. Rajendra Prasad still reverberate in my ears as if I have just finished my opening discussion with him. Time sure has wings but for me it seems to have flown much faster than I would have wished it to. I wish I had stayed for some more. But then I will leave only to come back always.

I will not be just if I try weaving my gratitude for Sir in words. I see in him an able mentor, a dedicated scientist, a caring friend and a loving father. I just want to say: “Thank you Sir for making me all what I am today!”

I owe gratitude for Prof. C. M. Gupta, the then Director, IMTECH, Chandigarh (presently Director, CDRI, Lucknow) in whose lab I initiated my work. I am more than thankful to him for his valuable suggestions, absolute support and inspiration wherever and whenever I felt the need of.

It was pleasure to be with Dr. Suresh V. Ambudkar at NIH, Bethesda. But for him, the stay in the alien land of the US would have been nightmarish. He did so much to encourage me in spite of my myriad failures. I will not be able to acknowledge the care and warmth he extended in and out of the lab. “It was a gala Diwali party with you, sir!”

My special thanks are due to the present Dean, Prof. K. C. Upadhyaya SLS, JNU, for providing excellent facilities in the School.

I am short of words to express my feelings for Prof. N. Z. Baquer, for her kind support and encouragements for not only the work but also for providing a family away from home. I am deeply touched by her love and affection. I can never forget the love and affection of Vibha M’me. I will always remember the moments I spent partying several times at her home. I treasure the fun my colleagues and I had with Prof. Ali Baquer on Eid.

My special thanks are due to Messieurs A. Ahmed, B. A. Khan, Alexander, S. P. Sharma, S.K. Mishra, Rajendra, Aslam, and Balwant of the Central Instrument Facility for extending their help in day to day works at the CIF. I thank Mr. R. N. Saini for developing the photographs used in this work.
It is very difficult to phrase in words the feelings I have for all my friends who had helped me in conceiving and finishing this task. It would have been real difficult to complete it without Sanjay’s helps. His encouragement, deliberations, love and affection made this mammoth work possible. I have wholehearted gratitude for Anjni, Pranab, Jyotsna, and Krishnamurthy who extended their support always and unhesitatingly. I cherish all my moments spent with my colleagues: Kasturi, Vinita, Sneh, Neeti, Avmeet, and Sanjeev. The love and warmth given by Neerja, Tulika, Suneet, Naseem, Preeti, Sudhakar, and Sabrina will always be etched in my memory.

I am much obliged to Sharmaji, Nandkumar, Pratima, Naresh, and Tiklal for they have been very helpful in carrying out the apparently mundane albeit important tasks of laboratory maintenance and assistance. I am especially grateful to Naresh for his unswerving attention.

I am thankful to Bharat for helping me to initiate my work. I treasure my night-stays in hostel with Neeti and Sneh. Aparna, Sandhya and Aperna were like elder sisters during my stay at NIH, Bethesda. I cannot forget time spent with Saubiya, Gayatri, Anitha, Suchi, Mitali, Rachna, and Ranjana, especially during SLS day functions. In the last five years I have been fortunate to befriend Subba, Puri, Matloob Anjana, Geetanjali, Meenakshi, Sasmita, Varsha, Asmita, Ritakshi, Brij, Arvind, and Marianna. I am thankful to all of them from my heart.

I have nothing to say for the support and love of Mummy, Papa and Mintoo. This work would have been shapeless but for them. They have been eternal source of inspiration and energy. “I love you, Mummy, Papa and Mintoo!” Financial assistance from the UGC in form of JRF and SRF is gratefully acknowledged.

I apologize to those whom I might have inadvertently forgotten to mention and acknowledge by name. There are countless samaritans who have extended their selfless hands in shaping my life and work. Thank you all!
