ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A research is in essence, a joint exercise in which several sub-research units participate to study and analyze the different dimensions of a given problem and then synthesize it to reach a conclusion based on its findings which may or may not open new areas of thinking and future research. This study too, is no exception and the researcher would like to acknowledge a number of individuals who have positively and significantly contributed in the research investigation.

I am gratefully expressing my deepest gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. (Dr.) Nilanjana Sanyal, Professor and former Head of the Department of Psychology, University of Calcutta, who advised me to take up research in the field of aging as it was relatively untouched in India. Her constant support, interest, sincerity and guidance in every step to analyze every outcome from possible angles with patience and care added depth to this study.

Further, for statistical analysis of the data, I remain grateful to Sir Debabrata Biswas, Senior Lecturer, Department of Psychology, and University of Calcutta, who helped me to get the data processed and analyzed.

I would like to extend my thanks to Dr. Manisha Das Gupta, Assistant Professor of the Department of Psychology, University of Calcutta, for her constant help, cooperation and useful suggestion to pursue the research work diligently till its completion.

I would also like to express my thanks to Dr. Sayantani Chatterjee, Assistant Professor of Loreto College, who helped me a lot in getting some of my questionnaires for data collection.
I am also thankful to all the subjects of married, widowed, divorcee and unmarried aged individuals who willingly co-operated, participated and made this study possible.

I am thankful to all the members of Journal Library, University College of Science and Technology, Library of Department of Psychology, University if Calcutta, Calcutta Metropolitan Institute of Gerontology (CMIG, for their familial help and cooperation. I do appreciate their rich collection of Psychology Journals and Abstracts.

It may not be out of place to mention here the names of a few books which have helped immensely in formulating the structure and content of some chapters of my thesis. The books are Human Intimacy by Frank D. Cox, Adult Development by John W. Santrock, and Developmental Psychology by Elizabeth B. Hurlock. These books have been referred to at proper places.

Finally of all, I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to my father Mr. Bibhash Chatterjee and my mother Mrs. Archana Chatterjee for their deepest support to pursue this research till its completion. Special thanks goes to my colleagues and my friends for their mental support.

With this acknowledgement I am submitted my present thesis to my learned examiners for their valuable opinion regarding my present endeavour for understanding a complex issue of enormous significance. I beg to be excused for some unforeseen lacunae that may be detected by learned examiners while evaluating the merit of this thesis.

Sraboni Chatterjee.