It is futile to build cities and flyovers with metros if man and rural areas remain unbuilt and benighted. Rural folks and underdeveloped areas of Darjeeling Hills, slumbering in the lap of the Himalayas, have to traverse and create milestones of human development by harnessing unfathomable resources.

Krishna Singh Moktan, Eminent Literateur, in Life's Memorable Experience