I will remain grateful to late Prof. Subhadra Kumar Sen for entrusting me with this work. When the result of my M.A examinations was published I approached him for suggestions regarding my research work. After a consultation with Prof. Sen, I chose my subject – Suniti Kumar Chatterji: The Linguist. This title of the work was selected and registered under the suggestion of Prof. Sen who inspired me to proceed with this work. After the sad demise of Subhadra Kumar Sen in September 2009, I consulted Prof. Abhijit Majumdar of Department of Linguistics, University of Calcutta. Dr. Majumdar's kind, helpful assistance and valuable suggestions have greatly helped me to complete this work.

I have approached Prof. Satya Ranjan Banerjee, (my teacher) the former Khaira Professor of Indian Linguistics for suggestions. His information and advice have inspired me to continue with and complete this work. My respected teachers Prof. Krishna Bhattacharya and Prof. Sumita Bhaduri have also guided me in this matter. I am thankful to Prof. Mina Dan, the Head of the Department of Linguistics; Dr. Selvyn Jussy, Dr. Aditi Ghosh and Dr. Sunandan Kumar Sen, Dept. of Linguistics for their valuable suggestions. Prof. Swapan Banerjee, Professor and Director, School of Studies, Humanities & Social Science, Training and Research. Netaji Subhas Open University has helped me to revise and improve my work. Sri Saikat Sanyal, Asst. Registrar, University of Calcutta, has also given me valuable information and advice regarding the subject of my research work. A meeting and a brief discussion with Smt. Chaya Chattopadhyay, daughter-in-law of Dr. Suniti Kumar Chattopadhyay have given me a chance to know about the family life, personal studies and interests of this great Indian linguist. In ‘Sudharma’ Prof. Chatterji’s residence, I have seen some of the art pieces of his collection like the statue (face) of a Negro girl found in Benin (Africa).

I have taken the help of Calcutta University Central Library, National Library, Kolkata; Asiatic Society library, Kolkata and Internet for reference. Mr. Subhas Bewra of Asiatic Society Library has guided me in my reference work and made the books and journals available to me. I have also visited the library of Indira Gandhi National Centre for Arts, Janapath, New Delhi. This library now possesses Dr. Suniti Kumar Chatterji’s collection of twenty seven thousand (approximately) books.

I am indebted to my husband Mr. Debabrata Chattopadhyay and elder son Diptangshu Chattopadhyay for their technical assistance. Without this assistance the completion of this work would not have been possible.

Mr. Rabindranath Ghosh, the renowned educationist of Salboni Block, Paschim Medinipur and former secretary of Salboni High School; Smt. Smritirekha Roy and Smt. Dipanwita Banerjee, Assistant Teachers, Salboni High School have greatly inspired me to do this work. The senior teachers of Salboni High School, Sri Prakash Chandra Mahata and Sri Shyamal Mukherjee have informed me of the important facts regarding the educational and cultural developments of the tribal people of West Bengal.

Kolkata,

Lily Bandyopadhyay
Suniti Kumar Chatterji – The Linguist