Chapter 7

Future Scope of the Study
Future Scope of the Study

➢ There is a scope of further study in other places and or other communities in the country to arrive at some generalized conclusion.

➢ A detailed study on the constraints of all the tribal communities in different zones can be made for appropriate measurement of their better health related parameter.

➢ Further study is needed to identify the predictors, which may have immense effect on health status of tribes.

➢ There is scope of comparing the findings of the social research with other methods of the health status evaluation.

➢ All other methods of diet survey may be taken into consideration during future research to get more detailed picture.

➢ Larger number of samples may be considered to get in depth findings of the demographic profiles of different tribal communities.
