Acknowledgements

It gives me great pleasure to express my gratitude to those who encouraged and helped me at different stages of this study.

I am indebted to Professor A. Basu, Visiting Professor, ISI, for his keen interest and guidance at every stage of the work.

I appreciate the encouragement and suggestions offered by Mr. S. Biswas and Professor S. Guha Ray, Visiting Professor, ISI, and my former teachers at Vidyasagar University. I gratefully acknowledge having received helpful comments and suggestions from Professor R. Gupta, Professor P.P. Majumdar, Dr. P. Bharati, Dr. S. Mukhopadhyay, Dr. B. Mukhopadhyay, Dr. S.K. Roy, Mr. R. Das and Dr. M. Ghosh Dastidar of ISI. Thanks are due to Mr. H.N. Shyam, Mr. S. Roy, Mr. S. Ghosh, Mr. T.S. Vasulu, Mrs. M. Chakraborty, Mrs. R. Ghosh (Bose), and Mrs. A. Sengupta (Saha) for their help and friendly cooperation.

Financial and administrative support given to this work by the authorities of the Indian Statistical Institute, particularly the Dean of Studies and Dean's Office, and the Professor-in-Charge, Biological Sciences Division and the Divisional staff is gratefully acknowledged. Thanks are due to the staff of the ISI Library and the Reprography Unit for the efficient library and reprographic services. The active help and assistance given during data collection by the staff of the Transport Unit of ISI are much appreciated. I do sincerely acknowledge the help of Mr. R.K. Bardhan for typing much of the text and of Mr. P.C. Coomar for drawing the map. I thank the Warden and inmates of the ISI Ladies Hostel for providing a congenial atmosphere during my stay in the Hostel.

I take this opportunity to thank the Inspector of Colleges, University of Calcutta for providing me with the names of colleges affiliated to the University, and the Principals and secretarial staff of various colleges in Calcutta for making available the lists of names and addresses of their employees necessary for my study. I am deeply indebted to all my respondents, the teachers of various colleges, who have given me some of their valuable time by patiently providing the data for this study and without whose active help the study would never have been completed.

Numerous coworkers, friends and well-wishers have been extremely nice and have inspired me over the years, I thank them all. Finally, I owe profound gratitude to my family, especially my mother, Mrs. P. Das and sisters, Mrs. C. Chakraborty (Das) and Miss R. Das for rendering sustained emotional support and encouragement throughout the long duration of this work.
