Acknowledgement

I express my sincere thanks and deepest gratitude to my supervisor Professor Pabitra Giri, whose able guidance and sustained interest in my work helped me to reach in this place, in-spite of my various lapses and delays.

No word will be enough to express my thanks and gratefulness to the staffs of the Census Library of Calcutta, Centre for Urban Economic Studies of Calcutta University, the National Library and Maharaja Manindra Chandra College, Calcutta for their sincere cooperation.

My sincere thank goes to the Director, Centre for Urban Economic Studies, Calcutta University for allowing me to use the computer facilities at the centre. In this context, I also thank my elder son Debayudh for helping me with the computer.

I am also grateful to the participants of my public seminar for their valuable suggestions.

Kolkata
October 2005

Shyamalendu Chatterjee

Seyamaleadu^faatteggfr

i