A major debt is owed to my guide and supervisor Sri Biswanath Banerjee, Reader, Department of Anthropology, University of Calcutta, for his immense help, support, and encouragement. He himself is an acknowledged authority in the study of kinship in Social Anthropology. I am grateful to 'Mass Education' for providing me the financial assistance in completing my work; to the Department of Anthropology, University of Calcutta for providing a context admirably suited to my endeavour. I owe a special debt of gratitude to Dr. Suhas Biswas and Dr. Biman K. Dasgupta for their comments, technical guidance, and the necessary correction that have kept my approach to the subject in right direction. Mr. Sisir Kumar Pal and Pintubikash Barua have been surpassingly tolerant of extra burdens imposed upon them in the typing of the materials and without their contribution it was not possible to complete this project. Thanks are also due to Sahadeb Ayal, Pradhan of Sripur grampanchayat; Ashim Ghose, Ex Pradhan of Nabapally grampanchayat (north); Hashi Mukherjee, Present Pradhan of Nabapally grampanchayat (north); Kantish Mukherjee, Librarian of Bandhab library of Jaynagar and Mira Dey, Librarian of Subhas library of Barasat. I would especially like to thank all the people of the area under study for taking so much of pain to help and cooperate with me throughout the process. I am deeply grateful to my husband and little daughter for extending support and raising morale to complete the work to the best of my satisfaction.

Maitreyi Lala.
