In the preparation of this thesis which is an outcome, in fact, of six years' persistent and laborious work often invaded by different circumstantial difficulties, I have always been blessed with constructive criticisms, suggestions, co-operation and encouragement from erudite and benign personalities.

First of all, I do gratefully acknowledge my debt to Prof. Dhiren Bhattacharyya, Dept. of Economics, Calcutta University, who has helped me in all respects without which it would have been impossible for me to walk at all such a long way.

Then Dr. A. M. Goon, Head of the Dept. of Statistics, Presidency College, Calcutta, has taken much trouble for checking my method of calculation, calculation itself and also provided me with some workable formulas to be used in this study. While Prof. P. Sarbadhikary [retired], Dept. of Economics, Jadavpur University, has given suggestion for the removal of definitional haziness, Prof. Nikhil Bose Bhattacharyya has referred me to Prof. A. Chatterjee both associated with Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta for checking the raw data. Dr. P. N. Roy, Reader, Dept. of Economics Calcutta University has always blessed me with his advice, criticism and suggestion especially regarding the procedure for the composition of the variable 'I'.

I do also appreciate gratefully the co-operation extended by Dr. Dilip Roy, Lecturer in Mathematics, Gobardanga Hindu College, in solving some mathematical problems.

Cordial cooperation from Mr. S.C. Basu, Registrar of Companies, W.B., Mr. B. Lahiri, Research Officer and Mr. N.R. Sircar, Asstt. Registrar, Office of Registration of Companies, West Bengal, is highly appreciated and I do not like to lower them by conveying merely my formal thanks.

Calcutta, the 20th April 1983

Pranaytosh Dhar