“Gratitude is not only the greatest of virtues, but the parent of all others”
Marcus Tullius Cicero (106 BC – 743 BC)

This study would not have been possible without several individuals who helped me at every step. I was fortunate to study at the Wildlife Institute of India and interact with many knowledgeable and finest individuals. The Journey has been fabulous and unforgettable......

I take this opportunity to thank my Supervisor Dr. S.A. Hussain, Scientist G, Department of Landscape Level Planning and Management, Wildlife Institute of India for his persistent encouragement, guidance and support. I am greatly thankful to him for his continued support throughout my research. In the last stages, it was his persuasion to finish the thesis otherwise this would not have been possible. It was indeed a privilege to work under the guidance of patient and learned teacher like him. I consider myself fortunate to carry out this work under his ever vigilant guidance, and without his meticulous planning this thesis would not have been possible.

This thesis is an outcome of the Department of Science and Technology (DST) sponsored project “Conservation of the endangered Asiatic wild dog Cuon alpinus in Western Arunachal Pradesh: linking ecology, ethnics and economics to foster better coexistence”. I wish to acknowledge DST for funding support. I owe special thanks to my Co-Supervisor, Dr. Gopi G.V. Scientist D, Department of Endangered Species Management, who gave me a wonderful opportunity to work in Eastern Himalaya and showed faith on my ability right from the beginning. He has been my adviser, well wisher and I am really grateful to him for his support. I am also obliged to Dr. Bilal Habib Scientist D, Department of Animal Ecology and Conservation Biology, who has given valuable comments and suggestions during field work and writing. His knowledge on large carnivores has been a great help for my study.

I take this opportunity to thank Mr. P.R. Sinha, Director, WII and Dr. V.B. Mathur, Dean, WII for their support and interest towards this study. I am grateful to Dr. K. Sankar, Research Co-ordinator, for his guidance and support throughout my study especially his advice during Ph.D. registration at the Saurashtra University. I specially thank Dr. Ruchi Badola, Scientist G, Department of Eco-development Planning and Participatory Management, who has been supportive right from my synopsis submission to the completion of my thesis. Her amazing knowledge on human dimension on wildlife conservation was indeed very helpful.

My sincere thanks to Government of Arunachal Pradesh for giving inner line permit to visit Arunachal Pradesh and to the Forest Department, particularly to Mr. D.V. Negi, PCCF, Mr. J.L. Singh, Addl. PCCF, Mr. C. Loma CCF, Mr. P. Ringu, Mr. Tana Tapi, DFO of Pakke Tiger Reserve and Range officers from Tippi and Seijosa for granting all necessary support during the field work. I thank all the faculty members of WII, especially Dr. Y.V. Jhala and Prof. Qumar Qureshi for giving me the opportunity to work with All India Tiger Monitoring Project. The experience that I gained from it helped me a lot during the course of this study. I owe my special thanks to Mr. Salvador Lyngdoh for all his help, support throughout my field work and also thesis writing, with whom I had wonderful time at Pakke Tiger Reserve.

I am thankful to Mr. Rajesh Thapa and Mr. Muthu Veerappan for extending my permission to use computer lab and also would like to thank Mr. Virender Sharma for his help during printing and scanning of my documents. I am also grateful to Shri Gyanesh, for his invaluable support and guidance during registration to submission of my thesis. Dr. Saravanan has always been supportive and encouraged me throughout my study. Mr. Peter Prem Chakravarthi, Mr. Sajan John and Mr. Praveen also helped me in many ways during my field work and ARS presentations. I thank Mr. Rupesh for his patience to prepare the map and GIS work. I thank Pragatheesh with whom I had a love and hate relationship throughout my stay in WII. I am grateful to Mr. Sridharan, ecologist at KMTR, Mr. Raja and Mr. Deva who helped me in many ways during my stay in the hostel and also for their moral support. My sincere thanks to Mr. Vijay, who helped me to take printout of my pre-thesis.

Dr. Shivani Barthwal deserves special thanks for her support, naturally it’s her helping tendency. Whenever I asked for her help, she has never refused. I am grateful to Shivani for her input at the time of thesis submission. I am grateful to Sangeeta Angom for making me a part of her family and showing concern for my well-being. I also thank Gokulakannan Research Fellow, WWF, Mr. Francis, Mr. Ashok Kumar, Mr. Charles Leo Prabhu and Mr. Navaneethan for making me feel at home. Library staff deserves my special thanks especially, Sh.Y.S.Verma, Smt Sunita Agarwal, Sh. Suresh Kumar, Sh. M.M. Uniyal, Smt. Shashi Bala, Smt. V. Dangwal Bhat, Sh. B.S. Chaughan, Sh. Ummed Singh Chaughan, and Sh. Kishan Singh. I am grateful to my fellow hostellers at old hostel, WII. I would like to thank Upma, Pariva Dobriyal and Neeraj Mahar for their editorial inputs in the thesis.

Back in Pakke, I would like to thank Pakke foresters especially Mr. S.K. Som, field staff and our field assistants Jully Welley and Manas Hazarika for their help during my stay at Pakke. I also wish to thank Ranjan and his wife in Seijosa for their kind help during my stay in Pakke. My Special thanks to Radai Nabum and his wife at Pakke Kesang who helped me immensely during my village surveys.

I take this opportunity to thank my friend Rati Srivastava, whose support and encouragement I always found refreshing. Her constructive criticism has always helped me to improve each and every aspects of my life. Finally, with heartfelt thanks...

... I dedicate this thesis to my AMMA and APPA.
