Acknowledgement

I had a rare privilege of working under the guidance of Professor KP. Kannan and Dr. K. Navaneetham since my M.Phil research. While Dr. Kannan always insisted me to gain a broader, profound understanding of the subject and appreciation of competing approaches and thereby influenced my way of thinking, Dr. Navaneetham imbibed a sense of careful and cautious outlook. I have immensely benefited from this judicious combination. I am sincerely grateful to my supervisors for their insightful advice, constant encouragement and considerate approach.

A number of scholars have helped me in a variety of ways throughout the course of my doctoral research. I express my sincere thanks to Professor Barbara Harriss-White, University of Oxford for her constant encouragement, insightful comments and kind help. I have benefited enormously from the discussions with Professor Bina Agarwal on various occasions. She had offered numerous comments, corrected my understanding and made possible suggestions for further work. I express my heart-felt thanks to her. I had an excellent, perhaps very timely, opportunity to interact with, and indeed benefit from, the profound understanding on the subject and objective approach of, Professor Diane Elson, University of Essex. She offered me a number of suggestions, which helped me considerably to revise my chapters. I am also thankful to Professor Nilufer Cagatay, University of Utah for giving me such a rare opportunity.

Also, I had benefited from the discussions with Professors Jean Dreze, Delhi School of Economics and Mari Bhat, Institute of Economic Growth, when they visited CDS. Professor Tim Dyson, London School of Economics provided a number of suggestions, especially on the fieldwork, when I had an opportunity to meet him in Bangkok while attending the Southeast Asian Population Conference. Professors Martha Chen and Jayati Ghosh offered valid suggestions at the beginning of my doctoral research. I have also benefited from the comments of Professor Subramaniam, Madras Institute of Development Studies, on my third chapter. I express a debt of gratitude to ORC Macro, USA for allowing me access the NFHS-2 data. In CDS, I have received a number of valid suggestions from many faculties all through the stages of my research. I express my sincere thanks to Professor K.K Subrahmanian, Professor K. Push pangadan, Dr. Pradeep Panda, Dr. Mridul Eapen, Dr. Achin Chakraborty, Dr. Praveena Kodoth, Professor John Kurien, Professor D. Narayana, Dr. N. Shanta, Dr. Uday Shankar Mishra, Dr. Shantha Kumar and Dr. Kabir. I express my debt of gratitude to Professor Mohanan Pillai for his concern and encouragement and affection. Dr. Irudaya Rajan and Dr. Raviraman also evinced continuous interest and helped me in various occasions. I am sincerely thankful to them.

I had numerous memorable occasions of interaction with, both academically and socially, and learning from my friends Aziz, Parameshwaran, Hari and Veeramani. A number of my friends, especially Shyjan (who also extended timely help on dissertation), Komath, Dhanya and Aathira, Prabhakaran, and Rathi Kanta made my campus life fulfilling and rewarding. I had moments of joy, laughter and indeed anger with very many friends, including Antonyto, Subbu, Francis, Hari, Nandana, Rajesh KP, Subrata, Shyam, Nathaneal, Sajitha, Ranjan and Venkata Narayanan. Also, I had nice time companying with Rajesh Puliyara, Anil, Saji, Jayachandran, Gipson and Nixon. I had an enriching and learning experience by associating with Dennis Raja Kumar and Vijaya Baskar. A number of my senior friends offered affectionate care and pragmatic suggestions. Most notable among them are Murugan, Jayachandran, Hari Kurup, Meena, Babu and Neeta, Pinaki and Lekha, Christopher and Venkatesan. To all these good people, I express my sincere thanks. I am also thankful to Manikantan for his timely help. I remain thankful to George Kutty for his valid assistance and friendship. I express my heart-felt thanks and appreciation to Aparna Sundar for her valid and timely editorial assistance and encouragement.

I am extremely grateful to CDS for giving me the Dr. P.K. Gopalakrishnan Endowment Fellowship for the pursuance of my doctoral research. I also acknowledge the concern shown by Mr. Jugnu, son of (late) Dr. P.K. Gopalakrishnan. The academic administrative section was always very helpful to me. I express my sincere thanks to all there, especially to Phil Roy for his numerous help and affection. I also extend my thanks to Soman Nair for his concern and help. Library staff were very kind and helpful to me. I express my special thanks and appreciation to Shoba Chechi, Gopan and Anil. Also, Shankar, Chidambaram and Krishnan Kutty need to be thanked for their valid help. Murali, Krishnan Kutty, GheeVarghese and Lekha also helped me in a number of occasions. In the finance section, Suresh, Panikkar, Aniruddan and Ramesh helped in various occasions. I express my sincere thanks to them all and also to others in their sections.

All at my home, both in Pulluvila and Poothurai, evinced greater concern for my development, helped me in very many valid ways, and were very kind to me. I am indebted to them all. My daughters, Shalu and Shrudhi, made my life pleasant and fulfilling through their unbounded affection and uncompromising, but deservingly genuine, demands. Perhaps, the only person who compromises for me in all ways at all times is my wife, Sibi. Her contribution to my well-being is certainly beyond words. Indeed, her efficient management of home, and appreciation for learning and, more than these all, her affection deserve a special mention, as they have enabled me to concentrate on my studies and complete this dissertation.

Sunny