ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Several people have played very important roles in my life over the past three years, thus either directly or indirectly influencing this dissertation process. It is not possible for me to thank each of them individually; nonetheless, I will try my best.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to my dissertation Committee Chairperson, Dr. A. Krishnan, Reader in Commerce, Post Graduate and Research Department of Commerce, Government Arts College, Dharmapuri, played an especially significant part and role in the completion of this dissertation. It is hard to imagine how I would have survived some of the difficult period without his encouragement, support, guidance, suggestions and most important, his friendship and blessings.

Thank you Sir.

I owe my sincere thanks to Prof. R. Kuppayammal, Principal, Government Arts College, Dharmapuri, for her invaluable support rendered to me.

I would also like to specially thank Dr. N.A. Anbarasan, Head of the Department of Commerce, for his continuous support and encouragement to complete this dissertation successfully in their esteemed institution.

I am also thankful to Dr. S. Thamilarasan, Associate Professor in Commerce, Dr. S. M. Krishnan, Assistant Professor in Commerce and other Faculty members of Post Graduate and Research Department of Commerce who have been kind enough in encouraging and motivating me towards this dissertation.
I would like to thank all – The Rector, Principal, Secretary, Head of the Department, Professors, Colleagues, and my students of 2006, 2007, 2008 and 2009 batch at Loyola College, Chennai and other people for which I have had a good fortune to be as friends over the past several years of my college life. They have enriched my life with fun, affection, and encouragement, thereby contributing largely to complete this dissertation successfully.

In addition, I would like to thank all the respondents in Chennai city for providing the right information and helping me out by filling the questionnaire without which this would have not been successful. Sincere thanks to all of them.

A word of thanks to the authorities and librarians of various Libraries such as Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers, Madras Institute for Development Studies, University Libraries in Tamilnadu such as University of Madras, Periyar University, Indian Institute of Management (IIM) Bangalore, Chennai Connemara Library, H. T. Parekh Library, Institute of Financial Management Research (IFMR), Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Chennai, Loyola Institute of Business Administration (LIBA) Library, Loyola College Library for having permitted me to glean through the rare and informative records and other scholarly books kept under their custody.

I also wish to express my sincere thanks to the following dealers in Chennai namely Royal Motors-TVS, Ramkay TVS, Good Will TVS, Kohinoor TVS, Sathya TVS, Brilliant TVS, Prabha TVS, Subham TVS and Suprasidha TVS for their valuable assistance rendered to me during my study.

I would like to sincerely thank with a heartfelt gratitude to Dr D V S. Janaki Das, Loyola College and Dr. Maran, Professor and Head of Management Studies, Sai Ram
Engineering College. Their efforts, patience and support were phenomenal. Their understanding and friendship have made this result possible.

I owe my sincere thanks to my friends Dr. A. Xavier Mahimai Raj, Dr. P. Maria Doss, Dr. P. C. Lakshmi Narayanan and my colleagues in Commerce department who have been kind enough in encouraging and motivating me towards this dissertation. A special thanks to all of them for their timely help.

I express my sincere thanks to Prof. V. S. Vaidyanathan and other faculty members, Department of Statistics, Loyola College for their technical services which helped me in finalizing the dissertation on time.

Finally, I wish to thank my mother Mrs. Fathima Dass for her continuous prayers and blessings, and my brothers and sisters who contributed a lot for this dissertation. And also I extend my heartfelt thanks to my relatives Mr. S. Samson Dorai, Mr. P. Vasanth and Mr. P. Karthick Kumar for their continuous support, encouragement and timely help.

Last but not the least I would like to thank my wife Mrs. V. Thamarai Selvi for her continuous support and encouragement with whose understanding and motivation helped me to complete this dissertation work successfully.

Above all I would like to thank God Almighty for showering His abundant blessings on me and helping me to complete my dissertation on time.

Thanks to one and all.

Dated: A. VICKRAM