Acknowledgements

At the outset it is my bounden duty to express my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. M.S. Swaminathan, Chairman, M.S. Swaminathan Research Foundation (MSSRF), Chennai for his inspiring model, guidance and continued encouragement which enabled me to take this challenge of taking this demanding study at a late stage in my life. Professor was gracious to provide all facilities from MSSRF to support this Research and study.

The author wishes to place on record his indebteness and gratitude to his erudite guide Dr. B.S. Nagarajan, Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Director, Adult Continuing Education and Extension (Retd.), Gandhigram Rural Institute (GRI) for the enlightened guidance, creative suggestions constructive criticism and abiding interest and encouragement during the entire study period. His enormous patience and readiness to help in vetting in the written matter facilitated in shaping and moulding the chapters of this thesis.

I wish to place on record my deep sense of appreciation to the Prof. T.R. Natesan, Former Vice-Chancellor and the present Vice-Chancellor Dr. N. Markandan, Registrar's Dr. Balasubramaniam*i and Dr. B.R. Dwarki of GRI, Dr. T. Renganathan, Dean, Agricultural Faculty who evinced continued interest in my research work and enabled me to complete this work.

My thanks are also due to Mr. V.R. Chitrapu, Principal Chief Conservator of Forests, Tamil Nadu Forest Department and the District Forest Officer at Dindigul for providing all field facilities and access to records which greatly helped in gathering data and information about the policies and working of Forest Department.
Much of the historical information about the past management of forests in the erstwhile Madras Presidency was gleaned from various records and books of the Tamil Nadu State Archives for which I am grateful to the Director of Archives.

The author acknowledges the help rendered by Ms. L. Gnanappazham for interpretation of the satellite data and the spontaneous assistance in field provided by Mr. S. Gunasekaran and Mr. A. Ilankumaran and other field functionaries in gathering the Socio-Economic data.

The author will be failing in duty if I don’t acknowledge the help support and co-operation shown by the Paliyar tribe people in particular Mr. Laxman and his wife Ms. Adi living in remote tribal settlement and the President Mr. Chandrasekhar and Member of Sirumalai - Palaiyur Panchayat and the people and villagers living in Sirurnalai Hills.

Lastly my thanks goes to Mr. K. Sunder Vadivelu, my Administrative Assistant who patiently and meticulously perused the changing versions of my handwritten draft and brought it to this presentable form.
