The present topic of research entitled "State Control on Trade and Monopolies in ancient India" was taken up in the year 1979 for the Ph.D. degree in the University of Calcutta. On completion of my writing of the thesis, I consider it my pleasant duty to put on record the immense help I have received from the various persons specially my revered teachers and institution for the furtherance of my research.

First and foremost I take this opportunity to convey by deep sense of gratitude and regards for my supervisor and guide Prof. Sisir Kumar Mitra, Professor, Department of ancient Indian History and Culture, University of Calcutta. The topic of research was advised by him. His constant care and encouragement piloted this research to a completion amidst many difficulties. It was an unforgettable experience to do my research under his guidance.

I would be failing in my duty if I do not mention about my revered teacher Prof. Adhir Chakraborty, Director of State Archives, Government of West Bengal, who was a constant source of encouragement and hope throughout my work. I take this opportunity to put on record my gratitude and regards for him for all the pains he bore during the period of my research.

I am also grateful to Prof. B.N. Mukherjee, Carmichael Professor, ancient Indian History and Culture, who was kind enough to help me with few of his unpublished papers, monographs and rare books.

During this four years I shared memorable moments with Dr. Ranabir Chakraborty, Gautam Sengupta of the Visva Varati University and Somenath Mukherjee of Calcutta University. Lively discussion with them refreshed my thoughts and revealed my errors. I offer them my heartfelt thanks.

The staff of the Library of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Culture, University of Calcutta specially C.R. Nandy and Sri Sanatan Mondal must be praised for all the facilities they provided me with. I am also grateful to the Librarian and other members of the staff of the Library of Asiatic Society, Calcutta. Last but not least I thank Sri Mukteswar Maity, who ably typed the manuscript.
Finally I would like to record my sincere thanks to the University Grants Commission for kindly providing me as a U.G.C. Junior Research fellow at the University of Calcutta with financial assistance for about four years. I am grateful to the authorities of the U.G.C. for their kind cooperation.
