

Contents:

No	Title	pages
	Preface	xii
	Introduction.	!
Ch 1.	Drama : A perennial search for self fulfilment .	8.
1.1.	Drama as a presentation of self.	8.
1.2.	Changing self in various forms of Drama	11.
1.2.1.	Greek Theatre : Self under the control of gods.	11
1.2.2.	Elizabethan Tragedy : Self as a victim of passions.	15.
1.2.3.	Realism : Self governed by heridity and environment.	17.
1.2.4.	Expressionism : Self as a subjective entity governed by the psychological laws.	20.
1.2.5.	Epic Theatre : Self as a social entity governed by social laws.	24.
1.2.6.	Tragicomedy : Self as a dispassionate subject trapped in the involuntary processes of time.	27.
1.2.7.	Theatre of the Absurd : Self as an isolated subject divorced from its setting	31
1.3.	Tragic nature of Drama explained in terms of the depiction of lack of fulfilment of the self.	41.
1.4.	Search for self fulfilment as essential for Drama	50.
Ch 2.	Natya as a theatre of self fulfilment : two kinds of Nāṭya presenting two kinds of self fulfilment.	53
2.1.	The need to see Natya in the background of its worldview.	53.
2.2.	The story of the origin of Nāṭya Śāstra as a key to its worldview.	56.
2.2.1	Self in Natya under the control of its own actions.	56.
2.2.2.	The story brings out the basis of law of actions of Natya .	58.

2.3.	Natya as a pleasurable revelation of Vedic worldview.	61.
2.4.	Self in Natya categorized into three kinds.	64.
2.5.	Self fulfilment perceived in terms of innate urges	69.
2.5.1.	Self fulfilment as the fulfilment of moral order, sex and power.	69.
2.5.2.	Liberation : the fourth urge of the self.	72.
2.6.	Implications of self analysis of Natya for rasa theory.	77.
2.6.1.	Santa as a rasa related to the fulfilment of self's urge for liberation.	77.
2.6.2.	Presentability of the fulfilment of self's urge for liberation.	84.
2.6.3.	Essentiality of depiction of successful self fulfilment for rasa .	87.
2.7.	Essentiality of adherence to norms for the success of Natya .	91.
2.7.1.	Essentiality of adherence to norms for the creators of Natya .	91.
2.7.2.	Essentiality of adherence to norms for the presentation of Natya .	96.
2.7.3.	Essentiality of adherence of norms for the audience.	101.
2.8.	Partial fulfilment as a gradual process for total fulfilment.	103.
2.9	Conclusion.	106.
Ch3.	Līlā as a theatre of 'playful' self.	114..
3.1.	Līlā as Natya for Bhakti .	114..
3.2.	Self fulfilment in terms of Absolute, the organiser of laws of nature.	116.
3.3.	Various relations of self with the Absolute and the corresponding paths of self fulfilment.	118.
3.4.	Santa rasa described in terms of the experience of Self fulfilment.	122.
3.5	Self fulfilment in rasa language : Līlā-s as schematic, variegated and wide choice of rasas .	125.
3.5.1.	Līlā-s as the theatrical depictions of 'playful' Self.	125.
3.5.2.	Bhakti rasa , the experience of Self fulfilment.	143.
3.5.3.	A scheme of preference for varieties of self fulfilment.	155.
3.6.	The issue of same sources for Bhakti and Karma plays.	170.
3.7.	The validity of the concept of Bhakti rasa as a theatrical experience.	174.
3.7.1.	The distinction of Bhakti rasa in the issue of self fulfilment.	174.

3 7.2	Rasa from the play as a result and means of rasa in the play	179.
3.8.	Rasa. as the purpose of instruction in Lila.	181.
3.9.	Bhakti Rasa as a day to day experience.	182.
3.10.	"Playfulness ¹ as the distinction of Lila.	184.
	Conclusion.	190.
Ch 4.	Lila as a playful process of self fulfilment.	194.
4.1.	Localization of Rās Lilā-s to Braj.	194.
4.2.	Norms of Rās Lila performances found in the daily life of Brajvāsi-s.	204.
4.3.	The format of Ras Lila : Rās Lilā as Natya adapted to Braj culture.	217.
4.3.1.	Origin and components of Ras Lila performances.	218. 1
4.3.2.	The pre-stage of Ras Lila performances : Lila as a devotional ritual.	226.
4.3.3.	Maharas Lila , the genesis, the prototype and matrix of the daily Ras Lilā-s.	236. ;
4.3.4.	Ras , the non-narrative and the most choosable play. '	239.
4.3.5.	Lila as the narrative play translation of the ways of Priti.	244.
4.3.5.1.	The content , form and performance of Lilā-s.	244.
4.3.5.2.	Lilā stories as narrative form presentation of theology.	248.
(I)	Killed demons as selves without self knowledge.	249.
(II).	Internal evidence in Maharas , for the absence of eros.	249.
(III).	Breaking Karma Kānda rules forprema , as process but not as problem.	257.
(IV).	Playfulness' as reward and formlessness as punishment.	260.
(V).	The glory of the rustic and the poverty of the glorious.	261.
(VI).	Ignorance of Krsna as the Absolute as most choosable.	263.
(VII).	The luck of the stolen : story showing the superiority of Radha	266.
4.3.5.3.	Scope for taking different meanings.	267.
4.4.	Ras Lila performance as a microcosm of Braj culture.	268.
4.5.	Character of Rās Lilā performances as a consequence of their localization i to Braj.	282.
4.6.	Ras Lila-s of Braj as cut out for the Gauḍiya Vaisnava process of self fulfilment.	290.

Ch5.	Conclusion.	297.
5.1.	Theory of self fulfilment in theatre.	297.
5.2.	A critique of certain modern uses of terms.	305.
	Appendices.	307.
	Bibliography.	316.

Index of Tables.

No	Title	Page
1.	Analysis based on the four part structure.	41.
2.	Three theories of threefold tragic nature of Drama.	46.
3.	Comparision between Drama and Nāṭya .	107.
4.	Comparision between Sana for Trivarga and Nāṭya for Moksa .	109.
&	Comparision between different schools of Vēdānta .	121.
6.	Sthāyabhava-s and their respective rasas in Bharata and Gauḍīya philosophy,	151.
7.	Scheme of rasa-t in Bharata and Gauḍīya Vaisnava tradition.	152.
8.	Comparision between different schools of Bhakti Vēdānta .	163.
9.	Scheme of choosability of varieties of selves.	169.
10.	Comparision between different schools of Nāṭya .	187.
11.	Comparision between Drama and different kinds of Mṭya .	189.

(X)

Index of plates.

No	Content.	Pages
1-3.	Chaitanya's ecstasies.	127-8.
4.	Temples in Vrindavan.	197.
5-7.	Rādhā's name on trees and walls of Vrindavan.	197-8.
8.	Rural and rustic culture of Brajvāsī-s .	199.
9-12.	Kṛṣṇa's pastimes in Vrindavan.	199-201.
13-17.	Daily activities of Brajvāsī-s .	205-207.
18-20.	Bhāgavata Saptāha during festivals.	208-9.
21.	Collective estatisy during Sankīrtan in festivals.	209.
22-23.	Badhai singing during Janmāṣṭami .	213.
24.	Rasdhari-S treated as Śvāmī-s (saints).	216.
25.	Brajvāsī children as actors.	216.
26-27.	Ras dances and classical aspects.	223.
28.	Has Lila dances and Folk aspects.	224.
29.	The orchestra in Rās Lila performances.	225.
30.	Babaji-S serving Radha and Kṛṣṇa during Mangalacarana .	228.
31.	Sakhi-s serving Radha and Kṛṣṇa (paintings).	228.
32-33	Treatment of actors as deities : outside of performance.	230.
34.	Actors treated as deities.	231.
35-36.	Arati to Radha and kṛṣṇa .	233.
37.	Maharas dance .	237.
38-39.	Dance configurations in Rās .	241.
40.	Mōr Nāc (peacock dance).	242.
41-42.	Butter thief Lila : stealing butter.	245.
43.	Kāmdēv's scene from Maharas Lila .	252.
44.	Mother's love : Butter thief Līlā .	259.
45.	A scene from Dān Lila .	264.
46.	liarsan in Līlā performances.	269.
47.	Darsan in temple.	269.
48.	Darsan during a Līlā performance : prostration.	270.
49-50.	Darsan : sacred offerings.	270-1.
51.	Audience of Ras Līlā : a view.	276.
52-53.	Jhulan Lila : Swinging Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa .	276-7.
54- 56.	Hōlī Līlā : three different scenes.	277-8.
57.	Gōvardhan Lila : sacred offerings.	281.
58-59.	Audience : sharing butter.	285.
60.	Audience : sharing humour.	286.

Index of Appendices.

No	Title	Page.
1.	The story of Prabōdha Candrōdayam .	307.
2.	The story of Bhartrhari Nirvēdam .	308.
3.	The story of Rama .	309
4.	The story of Krsna .	309
5.	The stories of Butter thief and liberation of the sons of Kubēra .	312..
6.	The story of Kāliya .	312.
7.	The story of Bhima killing Jarasandha .	313.
8.	Bhisma .	313.
9.	The story of Narasimha-Prahāda .	314.
10.	The story of Sanaka and his brothers.	233.
11.	The story of Ranti Dēva .	315