In the course of carrying out this study I have been helped by many persons, both directly and indirectly. My greatest debt is to Prof. Amiya Kumar Bagchi who stimulated my interest in the subject and guided me in my work at almost every step. I am also grateful to Prof. Bhiresh Bhattacharya and Dr. Asim Dasgupta of Calcutta University, and particularly to Prof. Nikhilesh Bhattacharya of I.S.I., Calcutta, for their valuable suggestions and comments on a first draft of the second chapter.

I am also indebted to Prof. N. Krishnaji of CSSS, Calcutta, who kindly went through the fourth chapter. His invaluable comments on my general approach have helped me a lot.

A debt of gratitude is owed to Dr. Biswanath Mitra of IIT, Kharagpur, who provided valuable comments on earlier drafts of the fifth chapter.

I must also profusely thank Dr. Damodar Acharya of I.I.T., Kharagpur, who helped me in computer programming. I am also grateful to Dr. Bhananjoy Sen and Mr. Bishnupada Sandilya of I.I.T., Kharagpur, who read the manuscript and helped removing obscurities and inaccuracies in languages and thus improving the exposition.

Of course, I alone am responsible for the errors remaining in the study.

Kharagpur
Dated 22 April, 1981,
Purnendu Sekhar Das

Purnendu Sekhar Das