Acknowledgements

My "GURU"—Dr. Mohan Ramanan—just the word guide is pathetically inadequate. Thank you Sir, for your help, concern, encouragement, your valuable attention to detail and incredible store of patience. THANK YOU.

Dr. Viswanathan for interesting discussions and useful suggestions.

Dr. Sudhakar Marathe for advice, encouragement, for generously lent books and articles and for generally showing me that teaching and learning could be fun!

Dr. Tejaswini Niranjana for making me approach my once dreaded "Theory" and learn to handle it.

Dr. Sachidananda Mohanty—especially for a stimulating M.A. course "Literature Against Itself which enabled me to tackle and grasp many texts I would otherwise have dismissed as incomprehensible.

Drs. Alladi Uma, M. Sridhar, K. Narayana Chandran, Hoshang Merchant, P. Sailaja, T. Nageswara Rao and Ms. K. Suneetha Rani for making my M.A. years and initial research stages enjoyable and fruitful enough to inspire me to continue.

The U.G.C. for financial support and the National Library, Calcutta. ASRC library, H.C.U. Library and Bangalore University for providing most of the required materials.

All my teachers at the English department, St. Teresas' College, Ernakulam, for fostering my love of Literature and equipping me to go on.
Especially Ms. Jayanthi and Ms. Aisha who made texts come alive for me.

My colleagues at the English Department, Bangalore University for their unlimited help, understanding and encouragement.

Especially Vaishali—Thanks for being a wonderful friend and sharing burdens when it was most needed.

The office staff of the English Department—Mr. Murthy—for typing the thesis, for putting up with last minute fusses, for always being warm and friendly and above all for keeping on smiling. Mr. Raja—for a seven years’ association of total friendliness and cooperation. Mr. Suresh and Mr. Chari for all assistance.

Mr. Jayashankar (IAS) for allowing me to use his valuable private collection of books.

Murali uncle, Sunanda Chechi and Aravind, for being wonderful local guardians, and making me feel totally at home. Chandravaliamma and family for the wannest welcome and hospitality imaginable.

Mani Uncle, Meera Aunty, Divya, Dhanya and Achamma for always caring and being concerned.

Mohan uncle and family for tremendous help and assistance.

Sudha Akka, Bharat, Sowmya and Meera for being completely informal, for always welcoming me, for being ready to listen, for providing a home—Thank you.

Viji for a long friendship of a puzzling nature—as rewarding as it was complex.

Josephine, Jean and Annie—for valuable friendship and cherished correspondence.

Vidya—for warm concern, affection and for making me feel I had someone even though there were miles between us.
Jai—for a unique friendship, wonderful as long as it lasted. The memories are yet precious.

Nags—for literally restoring my faith in humanity! Thanks.

Chitra Raghavan—for allowing me to use your room as storage space and for becoming so very important to me in such a short time and for being there when most desperately needed.

Rekhakutty—for magically entering my life, enriching it and inspiring the sincerest laughter of my existence.

Aruna for an incredibly warm friendship, lit up by that warm smile, for tons of practical help, for trusting me and for being there for me to trust.

Angel—for not being Angelic in any way, for fighting and for making up. and for always caring.

Srilu, Ajanta and Rekha for the much needed spur of intellectual antagonism as well as the valuable "non-academic" fellowship.

Nigel and Vidya—for setting academic standards and for always being approachable.

Praveena—for a very important friendship and all those snacks, provided when most needed!

Sharmi—for proof reading, for laughing, and for defeating my nasty assumptions.

Shikha—for boosting my confidence to an incredible degree.

Bindu—my crazy friend, for bulldozing me into friendship, for never doing a thing I said and yet making me love the way she did it!

Sandhyakutty, for setting an ideal of dedication, for caring so much, for being there and just for being you.
Gee—I owe you my survival, Gee. And there is no way I can ever thank you enough. But an especial thanks for always, despite everything, believing in me and caring for me.

Chitra—You could always interpret my silences, Chitrakutty. Just—THANK YOU.

Animiniamma for nearly twenty years of affection and loyalty which made life so much easier.

All my "Valiyachans" "Valiyammas" and cousins for their concern.

My Grandparents for their welcome parcels, blessings, affection and treasured correspondence.

My FATHER—for living completely for me, for tolerating me in my worst moments, for ALWAYS being there to lean on, for loving me so much I had a million years of happiness in 27 years of life. I don't deserve you “Achai”, but I am thankful I have you.

Thank you God, for bringing me safely through what often seemed to be impermeable darkness. Thank you especially for being there when I was too confused, upset, angry or foolish to even call you.
