ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

During the course of my research work I have received help from several people. All of them deserve my sincere thanks.

First of all I place on record the great help received from my supervisor, Professor K.L. Sharma, Chairman, Centre for the Study of Social Systems, School of Social Sciences, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. His valuable guidance at various stages of the study has immensely benefitted me. I am heavily indebted to Professor Sharma for his constant encouragement, inspiring comments and keen interest in this work.

I am indebted to Professor Yogendra Singh for his kind gestures which brought me closer to an academic experience of this kind. The faculty of the Centre always showed their concern with my work. I express my sincere thanks to them.

This work was greatly facilitated by a fieldwork grant awarded to me by the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi. I thank the officials for their help.

The people of Dobhi Block deserve my thanks for their participation and cooperation in the collection of data for this study.
Among the family members, my parents were curious about the work. Devesh and Sameer, my sons, have helped me in several ways. My wife Prabha stood by me in moments of stress and strains during the course of this study. They all deserve my appreciation.

Shri Adya Saran Singh, a relative of mine, has been a motivating force in completion of this work. I am grateful to him.

The help rendered by Shri A.N. Kunjunny is duly acknowledged with great appreciation.
