The present research work has been the end result of a tedious journey, spanning over seven years. During this, I have been through moments of high and low, and there were people who stood by me in all such instances. I take this opportunity to thank all of them, associated with me in this work.

My teacher and supervisor Sri Supreo Chanda, Associate Professor and Former Head of the Department of Museology, University of Calcutta, has not only guided me in my research work, but has also shared his knowledge, expertise and experiences in the field. Moreover, his valuable advice in adverse situations has helped me to overcome my shortcomings, and put in the real effort, encouraging good progress and finally, completion of my thesis.

Dr. Indrani Bhattacharya, Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Museology, University of Calcutta, has not only been my teacher, but has also been a well-wisher, providing me with all kinds of guidance through times of need.

I would also like to extend my sincere thanks to all the other faculty members of the Department of Museology, University of Calcutta, including the non-teaching staff, and my fellow research scholars, especially, Ms. Shilpi Roy, Ms. Juthika Biswas, Ms. Sayani Ghosh and Ms. Sangita Mukherjee.

My parents, Md. Abu Bakar Dhalı (father) and Mrs. Afsana Begum (mother), have been my pillars of strength, through out this work. They have always inspired me, providing me with the impetus to continue my research work, through thick and thin. Other well-wishers who have also assisted in my work, from amongst family and friends include Ms. Ashanur Parveen, Mohsin Gain, Masadur Rahaman and Abdul Hafiz.

Zahir Abbas, my husband, has extended his full support towards my work, in whatever ways possible, helping me to cope up with the challenges faced in the course of my research. For their constant support, my in-laws owe my gratitude as well.

This research work would have never been possible, without necessary permissions of the concerned authorities of the museums and institutions, to survey their entomology and associated holdings, and photograph the collections to fulfil the purpose.

The researcher wishes to extend her gratitude to the UGC for supporting her research project as Sr. Research Fellow.

The researcher is also grateful to all other such persons, with whom she had interacted in the different museums and institutions, visited for the purpose of her research work.
