Completing a Ph. D. is truly a marathon event, and I would not have been able to complete this journey without the aid and support of countless people over the years of my Ph. D. I must first express my deep and sincere gratitude towards my advisors, Professor Rajendra Prasad, Prof. Najma Z. Baquer and Prof. Uma Banerjee. Their leadership, support, attention to designing as well as planning the scientific research, hard work, and encouraging has set an example I hope to match some day. I have got a great opportunity to learn a lot of things from them individually.

As I feel myself a lucky one to work in three different laboratories during my Ph. D. and gather more knowledge since I exposed to different scientific research work. I would like to thank my supervisors for giving me the opportunity to work with them. The friendly and supportive atmosphere in all the labs I have performed my research work has helped me to perform my research work in excellent way. I thank, dean SLS Prof. RK Bamezai and previous Dean SLS, Prof. Alok Bhattacharya for maintaining an environment conducive to research.

I extend my warm thanks to Dr. Gauranga Mukhopadhyay, chairperson of the SCMM under his guidance & valuable advice I did the genotyping and RAPD part of the present thesis. His extensive discussions around my work and interesting explorations in operations have been very helpful for the present study. The Staff of the Central Instrument Facility, SLS deserve words of gratitude, especially, Mr. A. C. Alexander, Mr. B. A. Khan, Mr. S. P. Sharma and Mr. S. K. Mishra for their help in operating the instruments in CIF. I am also thankful to all CIF staff, Mr. Rajendra, Mr. Aslam and Mr. Balwant.

I am deeply indebted to Dr. Biswas and Dr. Wig from Medicine Department/ All India Institute for Medical Sciences, for their valuable help in collecting samples from the HIV/AIDS and Dr. Goswami from endocrinology department/AIIMS, New Delhi for his valuable help in collecting samples from diabetic patients.

I would also like to thank the faculty members of SCMM, Dr. C. Mukhopadhyay, Dr. R. Tyagi and Dr. S. Dhar for their helping attitude.

My warm thanks are due to Dr. Ashok Rattan, Director of the microbiology department/Ranbaxy for his valuable help.

I extend my warm thanks to, professor. Ali Baquer and Vibha mam for the memories left with me of sharing wonderful parties hosted by them in festivals.

My warm thanks to my lab-mates in all the places I have worked, lab. # 101: Dr. Kasturi, Smriti, Sneha, Neeti, Avmeet, Neerja, Suneet, Naseem, Tulika, Preeti, Sudhakar, Nivedita, Dibyendu, Sudhanshu, Ritu, Versha, Raman, Antresh, Khyati, Manisha, Annu, Hina and Nidhi. Lab # 106: Dr. B. L. Gupta, Shalini, Umesh, Sameer, Moorthy, Asia, Anil, Anju & Rizwan. Clinical mycology lab/AIIMS: Dr. Ima, Kausik, Abhjeet, Mrs. Sharda, Neena, Pyilali, Fahmi and Dolon.

I would specially like to thank Nand Kumar, Pratima, Shankar, Naresh, Tiklal, Gagan, Deepak and Chota Rajesh for their help.

I cherish the moments that I have spent with my SCMM lab mates, the help and concern extended towards me by Absar, Neeraj, Aparna, Jagannath and Prasad is unforgettable. The memory of working with Jagannath & Sharadi for getting first prize in Biosaprak-2004 is unforgettable.

The financial support of the Indian Council for Cultural Relations (ICCR) is gratefully acknowledged. I am indebted to bus 615, which made my life easy in JNU campus.

All words of thanks and the gratitude will not be sufficient to my dearest people: my wife Ibtihal, son Abdul latef and daughter Rand, how kept patience, smiling and supportive. I am always in the laboratory, and they are doing the entire thing for me. They have lost a lot due to my Ph. D. research. Without their encouragement and understanding it would have been impossible for me to finish this work. This thesis is dedicated to my wife Ibtihal, who deserves an award for her patience, understanding and prayers during my PhD study. I am also grateful to my parents, as I always far from my mother but her wishes and prayers always with me, which provided moral and spiritual support. Any words that I gather would be insufficient to convey my feelings for Haj Abdul Gani Yahia with his support and standing by me made my Ph. D. journey possible to achieve, also my thanks to my mother in-law for her kind support. I thank all my family members for instilling in me confidence and a drive for pursuing my Ph. D.
